

EVENING HERALD.

THE DULUTH EVENING HERALD is issued from its office in the Bunnell block every afternoon, except on Sundays and holidays. The price is five cents a copy. The subscription price is $1.00 per month in advance. The best advertising medium in Northern Minnesota. Special attention given to securing results to those who use its columns.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DULUTH.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

There will be this year a larger proportionate increase in the area of cultivated land in the northwest, especially in Minnesota and Dakota, than ever before in a single year's history of this part of the country. Last year the increase in acreage was about 2 per cent. This year it will be over 4 per cent, a difference in favor of 1889 of more than 2 per cent. The cause of this sudden augmentation is, apparently, once the facts of the case are known. By the failure of crops in many portions of the northwest the farmers living in those sections of the country, in many instances, were unable to pay even for the cost of raising the grain crop, leaving them nominally destitute, so far indeed as this year's crops were concerned. And here those awful grasping, monopolistic corporations called railroads, those corrupt bodies, a membership in which is frequently supposed to brand a man's character for life, and the county commissioners, against whom no breath of foul suspicion has as yet rested, did a very common sense and charitable action. They informed the farmer that he could buy wheat of them at the lowest market price, paying them on the maturity of this year's crop. Grain men here were afraid that farmers, in their desperation, would try the hazardous experiment of sowing wheat, shrunken or poor qualities of wheat, thus deteriorating the grade of wheat that has given Duluth its reputation as the natural storage place and head quarters of the famous No. 1 hard. As far as can be learned, however, farmers are generally taking advantage of these corporate and legislative offers, and should the increase in acreage give a corresponding increase in the crop harvested, Duluth will crowd her elevator facilities to the utmost before the year has ended.

The American peace society deprecates the improvement of the fortifications of this country. They would feel so badly about it when they want it run behind one of them.

The Boston Herald offers a big apple to the person who solves a railroad financial problem. Its offers of a big apple to the best baked beans to still open to cash subscribers.

According to the New York Press, if New York don't get a plan of the cabinet, the party will go to wrecking smash in that state, and the Democrats will return to power in 1892. The Press forgets that the admission of the two Dakotas and the breaking up of the solid South will greatly reduce the importance of New York in the next contest, besides greatly reducing the cost of the campaign, for New York comes high.

The outcome of the great strike in New York renders the proposition preposterous that the strikers can win in such undertakings by overbearing cars and beating the drivers and conductors who have been employed to operate them. This is a land of law and order; and if strikers would win popular approbation they must refrain from doing violence to person and property. When resistance is resorted to the innocent are made to suffer, and the wrongs of the oppressed are lost sight of in the natural attention to self-preservation. Workmen, who would have their grievances righted, must bear this in mind, if they wish to gain the moral support of the people; and the people will then see to it that they are treated with the consideration they justly deserve. Man wrong to the great cause of American labor who endeavor to convert the laborer into a savage, whose wrath can only be appeased by destruction and bloodshed.

Rev. S. G. Smith, of the People's church, St. Paul, is one of the foremost ministers in the west. His views on any subject are sure to be well founded, and are always worthy of attention. In a sermon Sunday he speaks as follows on the question of high license and prohibition: After referring to the four policies advocated by those who would control the liquor traffic, he said of the high license policy that any license not large enough to diminish the number of saloons does not meet the requirements of "high license." Experience shows that in cities $500 is a low license, whatever it may prove in country districts. The high license law in Minnesota has largely reduced the number of saloons and brewers, and wholesale liquor dealers report a decreased amount of business. "But the chief effect of the battle two years ago was the weakening of the saloon as a power in politics. Under the former system a single individual in St. Paul is said to have had practical control of 328 saloons. Under the present system he controls less than seventy-five." As to the control which law may afford, Rev. Smith said there are three propositions. "One is, that we shall be proud and thankful for what we have accomplished and let well enough alone. This sentiment is shared by some of the wisest and most conservative of our citizens, whose devotion to the best interests of society cannot safely be impeached. Another class of citizens, no less zealous, demand the submission of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the sale of intoxicants. A third class, who wish to be both zealous and conservative, maintain that in the evolution of the temperance reform they may at this time safely extend the principle of local option to counties." The preacher makes this rather serious charge: "Every saloonkeeper in this city violates the law every week and makes his bodkins little by little in the pen of $2,000." Then he says: "Until we can succeed in enforcing the prohibition which we have one day a week, would it be seriously worth while for us to try to enforce it during the other six?" He finally arrives at this conclusion: "By a combination of our present high license system with its legitimate extension to county local option, I think as nearly an ideal system would be secured as is possible in the present imperfect state of affairs."

THOSE ALUMINUM WORKS.

WHAT THEY SAY IN ST. PAUL, REGARDING THE POSSIBILITY OF PRODUCING ALUMINUM. A St. Paul paper commenting on an article published a few days ago in the Herald on the possibility and probability of aluminum works here, speaks as follows: Duluthians say they are to have a large works built for the production of aluminum, which they claim, abounds in their clay districts. Aluminum is the most abundant metal known, and large sums have been spent in ascertaining the best way to extract it from mother earth, but for commercial purposes one man only (Wester) has at present produced it in pure state, and placed it on the market at a reasonable figure. All other makers have produced it in conjunction with its alloy only. A young American named Easton induced some English capitalists to fund the means for developing his process, and works were erected by Messrs. Chance Bros. of Southwick, but no reliable result has been achieved. The scientific world awaits the inventor who will produce pure aluminum for twenty-five cents per pound with impurities. If Duluth can do this the future of the Zenith City is assured.

Burnt Cork. Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's minstrels last night at Turner hall demonstrated, the intense satisfaction of the small audience present, that they deserve their reputation, not only as an excellent company, but as one in the very front rank of burnt cork comedians. After a pleasing first part, in which the numbers were repeatedly enjoyed, the second portion of the program was given by the "Burnt Cork" dancers, introducing Webby and Pearl in difficult and novel steps. Presently Ben, Mowatt stands without a peer in the difficult movements of the club swinger. At times he would involve his Indian clubs in such swift and intricate movements that it seemed as though he was performing a practically impossible feat. No less an article was the part essayed by the Leech Brothers, the banjo wizards of the minstrel stage. This act alone is well worth a trip to Turner Hall. Charlie Goodyear, the comedian, and the sketch "Rehearsal in the woods," and Geo. H. Edwards, comic producer, were desirably well received. Nichols Brothers, graceful and acrobatic of no mean skill brought forth storms of applause by their graceful and difficult feats. The name of the after piece, Sonoma-batic Reverses, is a misnomer for the laughable sketch is calculated to do anything but turn a man's thoughts to either sleep or "reverses." Turner hall is situated somewhat out of the way, but the entertainment given last night was well worth a half dollar to the distance.

Philadelphia on Pinkerton. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—The interview with "Billy" Pinkerton telegraphed from Chicago, in which the famous detective charges that Major Wendell P. Bowman, of this city received and has retained a sum of $15,000, being a portion of the proceeds of the noted Rock Island express robbery in which Messinger was killed, has created general surprise in this city, although it receives little credence. Major Bowman is the son of a prominent member of the Union League and other fashionable clubs, and was one of the founders of the famous "Punch" club. He denies the story and promises to make it warm for those that gave it birth.

A Crime at Anoka. ANOKA, Feb. 5.—John E. Asplund, aged 24, was arrested this morning for fornication with Ben Asplund, aged 12, on complaint of Ben's father. John came over from Sweden a year ago, and boarded in Asplund's house. Last November he pleaded guilty before Justice Hughes, who fined him to the fullest extent the law allows, $30 and costs. He is willing to marry her, but the father objects.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own. I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler, CHICAGO, MINN.

If you want to borrow money, go to MENDENHALL & HOOPER.

Money to Loan. Parties who contemplate building business blocks and desire large loans can be readily accommodated by S. M. CHANDLER, at Stewart & Britt's Bank.

For good reliable shoes and rubbers of all kinds, cheap, go to Pike & Barley's, as they are closing out and will quit.

We have a special bargain on Superior street west near Seventh avenue.

The soft glow of the tea roses is acquired by ladies who use Pozzoni's Complexion Powder. Try it.

Bids Wanted. Bids will be received at the office of the undersigned until February 9th, 1889, at noon, for the purchase of the Bay View hotel building, at the corner of Superior street and Fourth avenue west. The building to be removed by the 15th of March, 1889.

Newton's fire pictures for sale at St. Louis and rows stand 23c each.

Lumber: Lumber: Our office temporarily will be at No. 12 Second avenue west.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

Special bundle sale of uncleaned goods will commence on February 1st at Lakeside laundry. You pay your money and take your choice.

$2,000 to loan on inside property. Call on D. W. Scott.

Money to Loan. On furniture, horses, wagons and any chattel security in amounts to suit borrower. A. C. LAMSON, room 6, Miles block.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

If you want the best laundry work go to Troy Steam laundry. All work called for and delivered 2 Seventh avenue west.

If you want to borrow money on your "real estate" call on Y. M. CHANDLER, at Stewart & Britt's Bank.

West Duluth property. Chas. T. Abbott.

Money to Loan. I am prepared to make loans on improved business and residence property in any amount at current rates. No delay. S. M. CHANDLER, at Stewart & Britt's Bank.

For Rent. For rent 3 room house corner Fourth avenue east and First street. Loans to buy the carpets, window draperies and stoves now in the house. Possession given from first to middle of January. G. D. Hartley, room 202 Duluth Union National building.

FAR BETTER.

"I was once poorer the fifth of us. To see corns as others see us. But how much better it by itself. Others could see us as we were ourselves."—Boston Transcript.

SANS DOT.

At the general reception, when she entered the great ball room, radiant, young, her pretty shoulders bare, a murmur of admiration rose from the groups of officers posing in the golden light of the crystal chandeliers, her white curls vibrating with emotion as of one who says, "Behold my daughter!"

Retiring, soft, modest, the father, colonel of the One Hundred and Twenty-third, followed at a distance, intent on keeping his feet off my lady's train.

As soon as they are seated a squad of lieutenants and captains, the elite of the regiment of Versailles, enter the hall in full dress uniforms, moustaches blonde or brown, eyes deferential or bold, advance quickly to the assembly and claim a place on her list of dances.

Then in the golden light of the crystal chandeliers she begins to dance lightly and gracefully to the music, borne by the arms of her father's favorite officer, a young man her homager. For them her wishes are orders, her wishes are law. The daughter of the colonel.

At that time it was true of the One Hundred and Twenty-third as of all other regiments, that an officer's advancement depended more upon his address in the saloon than his courage on the battlefield. From time to time, as selections were made for promotion, it was enough to decide a man's whole career to have the colonel's daughter carelessly say a word of praise.

Alas, then, so-and-so, what a charming officer, and how well he dances!"

And so she kept them all on three parallel with a little air of command at once imperious and coquettish. She had thus reached the age of 22 in this somewhat nomadic life, journeying from garrison to garrison, colors flying, band playing, and existence a continual round of dances. About this time her mother began to show signs of uneasiness; she wished to see her daughter married.

But between the prettiest creature and her father's faithful barrier existed. It is written in four words; she had no lot—and no money. Her father, however, apparently never dreamed of asking her to marry.

To please the colonel's daughter, to receive a possible advancement through her influence, certainly. To push forward in the matter of marrying, that was another story, and one that no one seemed disposed to sing.

Among them none, at least no one worth naming, was what she wanted. But within the last year the young girl had had not an admirer but a lover, timid and trembling, and one whom she openly slighted. He was a big fellow, with ruddy cheeks, moustache and blue eyes. A native of Lorraine, he had graduated from the school of St. Mark's and had won several medals of honor. But as he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension.

A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

ing my tears, money the 12th gave me. The noise and clatter is very life. And the mother with a sigh, tries to read the papers through glasses misty with tears, and the daughter, like one bereft, casts melancholy glances towards her old partner, who knows her no more. She is almost ill, and her beauty, refined by grief, has now a more penetrating grace. She reminded one of a flower refashioned and purified by rain and excitement. Grave and sweet she seemed doing penance for past pleasures and frivolities.

One day when the band was playing and the officers pronounced back and forth, smoking, talking and laughing, she recognized among the familiar forms she saw day after day a new figure. In an instant she was again the general's ball and her timid lover, hidden in a corner, devouring her with his eyes. She said to her mother: "Oh, mamma! Look there—the lieutenant!"

He, too, had seen them, for he had grown pale and looked ill, and he was almost in hand. The old mother hurriedly folded up her newspapers, and pushing them off the table, she said to her daughter: "What a beautiful sight! It is the lieutenant!"

"How are you, my dear lieutenant? What an age since we met! We are really very fortunate to see you here. You are now a lieutenant, and yet I see three bands on your sleeves!"

Then he grew red, and said that at the end of the six months' campaign he had been made a captain, after the affair at Nim-Dim, so many vacancies and occurred about promotion, it was enough to decide a man's whole career to have the colonel's daughter carelessly say a word of praise.

Alas, then, so-and-so, what a charming officer, and how well he dances!"

And so she kept them all on three parallel with a little air of command at once imperious and coquettish. She had thus reached the age of 22 in this somewhat nomadic life, journeying from garrison to garrison, colors flying, band playing, and existence a continual round of dances. About this time her mother began to show signs of uneasiness; she wished to see her daughter married.

But between the prettiest creature and her father's faithful barrier existed. It is written in four words; she had no lot—and no money. Her father, however, apparently never dreamed of asking her to marry.

To please the colonel's daughter, to receive a possible advancement through her influence, certainly. To push forward in the matter of marrying, that was another story, and one that no one seemed disposed to sing.

Among them none, at least no one worth naming, was what she wanted. But within the last year the young girl had had not an admirer but a lover, timid and trembling, and one whom she openly slighted. He was a big fellow, with ruddy cheeks, moustache and blue eyes. A native of Lorraine, he had graduated from the school of St. Mark's and had won several medals of honor. But as he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension.

A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and after that he had never again dared to ask her to dance.

As he was not a graduate of the aristocratic school of St. Cyr his brother officers treated him with a certain amount of condescension. A farmer's son, he was robust and rosy, a poor hand at talking, though well informed. Brilliant at drill he completely lost his head in a drawing room. His dancing was atrocious.

The fear that he might be lacking in proper politeness to the colonel's daughter was the only thing that ever tempted him to ask her to dance, and he had so mixed up the figures of the cotillon on that unhappy occasion that even the most expert failed to recognize them. This deplorable trial had sufficed him and

ARCTIC BREEZES BLOW.

One Decided Touch of Winter Makes the Whole City Shiver in Union.

This Morning's Weather Reports From Places West and North-west of Duluth.

A howling wind and a rapidly dropping mercury made last night a decidedly uncomfortable one in Duluth. The howling and storm were kept coming in at full speed all night. Notwithstanding this there were but few houses in Duluth that could be made comfortably warm much before noon for the wind would drive the heat from the exposed portions. The rapidity with which the mercury fell after about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon was surprising. At 6 o'clock it was at zero and it went down to 10 below at 10 o'clock. At 2 o'clock it was 10 below and at 7 it had touched 21 below. The minimum of the day, a wind from the north-west was blowing at 24 miles an hour all night, and this made the cold worse than 10 below. Today the wind has shifted to the north-east and the sun has shown brightly all day, though the mercury has not gone above zero. It is probable that tomorrow morning will also be very cold but that it will be the end of this surprise attack. At seven o'clock this morning it was 18 degrees below at St. Paul, that city being for once warmer than Duluth. 22 below at St. Vincent and Winnipeg, 40 below at Minneapolis, west of Winnipeg, 36 below at Moorhead and 25 at Fort Arthur. It was, too, 35 below at Fort Custer, Montana, and 24 below at Astoria, Oregon. The little severe suffering in this city last night, though many poor families shivered all night, while many others were warm and comfortable. The light of the day, however, and the fact that the mercury has not gone above zero, is a relief to the city. The morning will also be very cold but that it will be the end of this surprise attack.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

THE BOARD OF BETHEL MANAGERS MAKE A STATEMENT OF ITS FINANCIAL CONDITION.

On the 17th day of February the new Bethel building will be dedicated, and it is hoped that one or more good speakers will be here from abroad, or the occasion. In anticipation of that event, and that those who have so generously contributed to the purchase of the lot and erection of the building may know what use has been made of their contributions, the Bethel board has authorized the publication of the following statement:

For construction of building, $15,485.45

For furnishing and insurance, $15.67

For purchase price of lot, 1,500.00

Total outlay to date, 10,534.32

Amount still unpaid on lot, 5,000.00

Assets in hand by way of cash in bank, donations, and other sources, 4,500.00

Amount remaining payable, above assets, $4,000.00

From the foregoing, it will be seen that the entire outlay for lot and building and furnishing, in order to have the association free from debt, would be about $15,000.00 and that of this amount about $14,000.00 has been raised by subscription, leaving $1,000.00 still to be raised. It is hoped by the board that these $1,000.00 will be raised by the time the building is completed.

Mr. Satter will see during the coming few days before the dedication of the building, will respond to the call for additional subscriptions as cheerfully and liberally as those who have already donated, and that the day of the dedication will see the remaining $4,000.00 raised and the work of the association started without any further delay.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own.

I will meet any competitor in my line no matter where from, New York Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Duluth, Minneapolis, or anywhere else.

FOR RENT.

Office now occupied by M. B. Harrison, 513 West Superior street. Prominent location.

Chas. T. Abbott, real estate office West Duluth.

Insurance.

We have a large list of the oldest and best companies. Insurance promptly and carefully.

Mendenhall & Hoopes.

We have a special bargain on Superior street west near Seventh avenue.

Announcement.

At the request of friends I hereby announce that I will resign my position as municipal judge at the coming city election.

ALFRED J. JACQUES.

Don't risk it any longer. Insure with Myers & Whipple.

When in St. Paul stop at the Clifton, 5th street, opposite new court house.

Money to loan in amount to suit improved business property.

At Stewart & Britts Bank.

W. O. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

Excursion Tickets South.

The "North Western Line"—Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad—will sell tickets to many of the principal points in the south at greatly reduced rates on following dates:

December 18th, January 15th and 20th, February 12th and 25th, and March 12th and 26th. Tickets will be good to return within 60 days from date of sale, and will be good over at points south of Ohio river. Call at city or depot office of "The North Western Line."

Geo. M. Smith, General Agent.

Insure your property with Mendenhall & Hoopes.

PERMANENTLY LOCATED.

THE SPALDING HOUSE BUILDING.

The West Duluth Land Company has secured the room just east of the main entrance in the Spalding house. The location is good and in the future this company can be found at the above location.

We have a special bargain on Superior street west near Seventh avenue.

Hattie Bros.

We have it.

We have what you are looking for—real estate. Desirable lots in all parts of the city. Call on us at National Bank building, Mendenhall & Hoopes.

REST.

Disce, sleeping on a waste of ocean.

Sundown, westward trail a red streak.

One while sea, joined with scarce a motion.

Challenges the stillness with a shiver.

Where some rocky peak contains her rude nest.

While the shadows over the water they come standing.

As they whisper to the silence: "There is rest."

Down where the broad Zambesi river (thick away into some shadowy lagoon.

Lies the lone, and hence the sufferer's ruin.

Shaken by the sultry breath of noon.

See the water ripple in its flowing.

Feels the atmosphere's fragrance all around.

Drums its dreams, but the sweetest is the knowing.

That above him and around him there is rest.

Countries have faded into shadow.

Birth is forlorn with heart of man's desire.

Pilgrims all men were to some bright El Dorado.

But they wandered and they failed by the way.

Some were sick with the sufferer's pain.

Some were bowed beneath a care-enraptured dream.

But, in turn, they all find life's steady measure.

And all paused to wonder: "Is there rest?"

Look, O man, to that limitless wonder.

When thy anguish shall be lifted from thy dust.

When thy weeping shall be meted into laughter.

And thy love shall be saved from its lust.

When thy soul shall be sanctified with seeing.

The angels of heaven, and the angels of earth.

And the angel of death, and the angel of life.

And the angel of love, and the angel of strife.

And the angel of peace, and the angel of war.

And the angel of joy, and the angel of sorrow.

And the angel of hope, and the angel of despair.

And the angel of faith, and the angel of unbelief.

And the angel of charity, and the angel of selfishness.

And the angel of kindness, and the angel of cruelty.

And the angel of gentleness, and the angel of anger.

And the angel of meekness, and the angel of pride.

And the angel of humility, and the angel of arrogance.

And the angel of modesty, and the angel of vanity.

And the angel of simplicity, and the angel of complexity.

And the angel of purity, and the angel of impurity.

And the angel of chastity, and the angel of lechery.

And the angel of continence, and the angel of intemperance.

And the angel of sobriety, and the angel of drunkenness.

And the angel of temperance, and the angel of gluttony.

And the angel of moderation, and the angel of excess.

And the angel of balance, and the angel of imbalance.

And the angel of harmony, and the angel of disharmony.

And the angel of concord, and the angel of discord.

And the angel of agreement, and the angel of disagreement.

And the angel of union, and the angel of separation.

And the angel of togetherness, and the angel of apartness.

And the angel of oneness, and the angel of twoness.

And the angel of wholeness, and the angel of brokenness.

And the angel of completeness, and the angel of incompleteness.

And the angel of perfection, and the angel of imperfection.

And the angel of flawlessness, and the angel of flawedness.

And the angel of beauty, and the angel of ugliness.

And the angel of grace, and the angel of gracelessness.

And the angel of glory, and the angel of dishonor.

And the angel of honor, and the angel of dishonor.

And the angel of respect, and the angel of disrespect.

And the angel of esteem, and the angel of contempt.

And the angel of admiration, and the angel of disdain.

And the angel of awe, and the angel of familiarity.

And the angel of reverence, and the angel of irreverence.

And the angel of veneration, and the angel of desecration.

And the angel of honor, and the angel of dishonor.

And the angel of respect, and the angel of disrespect.

And the angel of esteem, and the angel of contempt.

And the angel of admiration, and the angel of disdain.

And the angel of awe, and the angel of familiarity.

And the angel of reverence, and the angel of irreverence.

And the angel of veneration, and the angel of desecration.

And the angel of honor, and the angel of dishonor.

And the angel of respect, and the angel of disrespect.

And the angel of esteem, and the angel of contempt.

And the angel of admiration, and the angel of disdain.

And the angel of awe, and the angel of familiarity.

And the angel of reverence, and the angel of irreverence.

And the angel of veneration, and the angel of desecration.

And the angel of honor, and the angel of dishonor.

And the angel of respect, and the angel of disrespect.

And the angel of esteem, and the angel of contempt.

And the angel of admiration, and the angel of disdain.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

A TERRIBLE WASTE OF LIFE IN EVERY COMMUNITY.

Death from Certain Diseases Unnecessary.

Dangers That Surround the Poor—Awful Condition in Cities—When Carelessness is Criminal.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

Reason declares that sickness and death will be more likely to prevail among the poor than among the rich and those in comfortable circumstances, and statistics prove such actually to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case. The mass of numbers is all to be the case.

THE DAY IN THE CITY.

Ten transfers filed yesterday amounted to $18,000.

It is stated that a Milwaukee syndicate will soon start a daily in West Superior.

During January the mail carriers delivered 340,300 pieces of mail and collected 276,230 pieces.

Earnings of all roads running out of Duluth will be better for February than for January as the coal trade is much better.

Workmen are still busy hauling out shales from the opera house ruins. All are found to have kept their contents in good condition.

Our receipts of wheat here this morning were only 14, a falling off from the record of the past few weeks, caused undoubtedly by the bad weather.

The lake is beginning to freeze over and a few more days like the last two will give ice men a chance to cut a supply of the stuff in the outside harbor.

The successful candidates in yesterday's city election are smiling jubilantly today, and are easily to be distinguished from the other men. So are their opponents.

It is said that Lillian Agent Gregory is after newspapers with a sharp stick for rustling him on reservation matters, and may enter a libel suit against the Pioneer Press and St. Paul Globe.

Slighting about the city and in the lumber yards is now good, and the loggers are hunting the city over for teams, being anxious to get as many as possible of their skidded logs hauled before a breakup.

The report of the commissioners to assess damages for the condemnation of property required by the Eastern Minnesota for its yards, tracks and terminals, was filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday afternoon.

O. E. Jones, late in the grain trade, and I. E. Briggs, formerly of Erie, Pa., have formed a partnership for doing a real estate and loan business. Their office is 27 Board of Trade, until now occupied by Mr. Jones alone.

It is now ten days since the fire by which the opera house was consumed, but there is today quite a brisk little fire in the back end of what was M. M. Casser's grocery, where a lot of flour and other groceries, more or less valuable, are slowly burning.

The railroad and warehouse commissioners began a series of daily meetings yesterday. Today the solicitor of the Duluth & Winnipeg road will appear before the board of the commission in support of the application for an increase in the capital stock of the company.

Minimum temperature this forenoon was 17° below zero, with a wind blowing from the north, which though not as severe as that of yesterday, was cold and sharp enough. The indications are for a warmer weather, and today has been bright and sunny with little wind.

Though the indications are extremely favorable for an increased amount of building and other improvements being made during the present winter, business is quiet at present, and active building operations will doubtless be suspended until the ground-hog emerges to see if the season which the sunbaker of last Saturday envisaged him.

Earnings of the Northern Pacific road for January have totaled up the sum total of $1,120,146, an increase of $419,939 over the same month in 1889. This is especially satisfactory for the Northern Pacific in view of the almost universal decrease recorded on western roads. Freight earnings are credited with $299,857 increase and passenger with $127,701, while miscellaneous gets the rest.

A second performance of the Goodyear, Cook & Dillon minstrel was given at the Peoples last night. The excellent character of the performance needs no commendation. It was up to the standard of the night before, but naturally considering the weather and the weather was to a much better audience. The closing performance is given this evening.

Mr. Barnes of New York, who is given here tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, is spoken of as follows by the New York Tribune: "Mr. Barnes of New York was produced at the Broadway theatre last evening with a strong cast and handsome scenery. The verdict of the house last evening was favorable and even enthusiastic. Those present at the Broadway were not ladies or weary in any part of this powerful melodrama."

Laborers desiring to build homes can get money on small payments in any amount. Call at once and see us.

F. W. SARRI, Sec., Metropolitan Block.

PERSONAL MENTION.

G. G. Hartley is in New York stopping at the Fifth avenue hotel.

Mrs. W. T. Bailey gave an informal lunch party this afternoon at which a number of ladies were present.

John C. Hunter, R. M. and Miss Jessie Hunter and Mrs. A. L. Hunter, spent the first of the week in Minneapolis.

Geo. B. Baker has returned from his long stay in Rochester, Minn., thoroughly recovered from a severe attack of typhoid fever.

Borrowers wanted for $10,000, in sums to suit borrower. We loan on real estate in any part of the city. Apply at once.

F. W. SARRI, Sec., Metropolitan Block.

The Germans Say

Mr. Blaine in the senate. They may know him better in a few months. It is also getting to be pretty well known that Dr. Geo. T. Neil, the optician, is at Room E, Hunter Block. Already many residents of the city have reason to be thankful that the doctor is here, because of their impaired eyesight. His ability to radically improve and cure cases of defective vision is becoming well known. It costs nothing to have your eyes examined, and the chances are as 99 to 100 that the doctor can remove from your life the terrible misfortune. If you are suffering in any way with eye trouble, it would certainly be advisable to call at once at Room E, Hunter Block.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own. I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler.

We are Not Burned Out.

We are not damaged a particle by the fire owing to the prompt and efficient work of the fire department. But we will not subject our fine instruments and apparatus to the danger of fire and dampness of our old building after May 1st when our lease expires. Therefore on May 1st we will move, whether we can find suitable quarters or not. We have stock for 5,000 cabinet pictures which must be used up by that time and in order to do so it will be our endeavor to give more for the money than any photographer in Duluth. Our regular cabinets will be $5.00 and we will guarantee best work for this price than can be had in Duluth. We will also make $3.00 cabinets.

M. L. COMBANT.

Fire Insurance. Insurance carefully written in old and reliable companies by Wm. C. Sargent & Co.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc., at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's

Try The

MAGNOLIA CIGAR.

—AT—

BOYCE & TOTMAN'S.

The finest Line of

Optical goods in the city at

BOYCE & TOTMAN'S

Are Headquarters for

TOILET ARTICLES.

MYSTERIES OF MURDERS.

THE BEST DETECTIVES ARE POWERLESS WITHOUT A CLEW.

How the O'Connor Murder Mystery Was Solved by an Accident—Cases That Have Remained Unsolved for Many Years and Probably Always Will.

Assistant Superintendent of Police Roger O'Mara is perhaps one of the best known police officials in America. It is, therefore, nothing to be wondered at that the Times control a request to have him give his views in regard to mysterious murders, with especial reference to the Whitechapel murders.

"There are three phases of murder, each one peculiar in itself, and not allied to the other. The first one is the disappearance of a person who has been murdered, and yet no proof can be established that the person has really been murdered.

"An illustration of this can be found in the London criminal records of 1890, when Cutman House Officer O'Connor was missed from his desk and never showed up again. It was supposed for some time that he had been ransacked with some of the government funds, but his accounts being correct and he having been seen the evening previous to his disappearance, in a good health, it was supposed by some persons that he might have been murdered. Yet the detective ability of London, at that time the best in the world, was for some days doubtful concerning the fate of O'Connor. Each member of the detective agencies and each editor had two peculiar theories of what had happened to O'Connor. Some suspected suicide in the river Thames; some suggested sudden mental aberration, through which he had wandered out of the city and died from exposure and privation. Some suggested murder, but could give no theory of why he should be murdered, as he had little or no money on his person. The murder theory had been opposed by a large majority of the Scotland Yard detectives and editors of papers, and also by the public at large, as no body had been found.

"In the course of a year, little by little, it was discovered that O'Connor had been carrying on a criminal intimacy with a married lady, Mrs. Manning, wife of Fred George Manning, both husband and wife occupying a good position in society. The superintendent of the Scotland Yard detective agency visited Manning's house, and had an interview with Mrs. Manning. She was quite cool and self-possessed, and readily admitted that she knew O'Connor well, but had not seen him for some time. Her husband also made a similar statement, and O'Connor's disappearance remained unsolved for some days longer. But, as no issue man was found wandering either in the city or in the Thames, the murder theory was given up, and the detectives called at Manning's house one morning and told Mrs. Manning they wished to search the house. She was making a goose on a spit at the time, and most obligingly showed them through the house from the cellar to the attic, searching trunks, presses, cupboards, etc., without success. The detectives concluded that the Mannings had no knowledge of the disappearance of O'Connor, and encouraged them, as they were leaving the house and passing through the kitchen one of the detectives by accident placed his foot on the flag in front of the fire, above which Mrs. Manning was cooking the goose. The flag sunk a little under the pressure of his foot, and he had it removed, and underneath the flag, at the depth of three feet, O'Connor's body was found in full dress, just as he had been murdered.

"O'Connor was a bachelor, 42 years of age, and occupied a sleeping room in a tenement house, and had a large amount of his savings in a bank in his room. Mrs. Manning and her husband knew this, and conspired to murder O'Connor, and when he privately visited the house she shot him and Manning hid him under the flag in the kitchen.

"If the detective had not, by pure chance, happened to step on the flag, O'Connor's murder would never have been discovered. Thus an accidental incident furnished a clew that was all that was necessary to unearth the bloody mystery.

"Mrs. Manning took his latch key and the keys to his desks, went to his room and obtained all the money he possessed, $200. Both Mr. and Mrs. Manning were hanged in front of Horsemen Lane jail in 1890.

A PENNSYLVANIA MURDER. "Another case of mysterious disappearance," continued Superintendent O'Mara, "afterward found to be a double murder, was that of the two grandchildren of William Shivers, aged 65 years, who murdered both children and buried them in the garden. The difficulty was to establish that a murder had been committed, but when the bodies were found there was no difficulty in placing the guilt on Shivers. He was executed in Lebanon county, Pa., last month.

"Another phase of murder is where the dead body is found and mutilated so there could be no doubt that a murder had been committed, yet no available clew to the murderer. The murder of Dr. Burdell, at No. 31 Bond street, New York, in 1877, comes under this head, as also does the Nathan murder. In each of these cases it was self-evident that a murder had been committed, but, as no clew had been left, no single startling link on which to found a clew as to who perpetrated the deed could be found, and the murders remained and over will remain a mystery.

"Yet another kind of murder is where the murderer is established and the murderer known, yet no trace of him is to be found. "Why the detectives were unable to follow the mystery of the Nathan and Burdell murders was because the murderers in both cases left no clews to their identification. In the case of Maxwell, alias Hugh M. Brooks, who murdered C. Arthur Preller and concealed his body in a trunk, the murderer was well known, and by leaving a single clew that he had started on a west bound train, every other link was easily found. If the first link in the chain had been undiscovered Maxwell would never have been brought to justice. My impression in the Burdell and Nathan murders," Mr. O'Mara said, "is that both were perpetrated by persons living in the same houses with the murdered men."—Pittsburg Times.

Bound to Be Civil. "Count d'Orsay" writes: "I am asked to dine with a family whose acquaintance I do not wish to keep. Now, should I go to the dinner and then cut them afterward, as some do? It seems hardly fair. Or should I go to the dinner and then laugh at my hostess? Had I not better stay away from the dinner?"

Decidedly. The gentleman whose name you have borrowed would tell you that when you have broken bread in a man's house you are bound to be civil to him and to his family, and to speak well of the lady at the head of the table.

Dinner invitations should only be accepted from those whose acquaintance you desire to keep. Be careful to be punctual at the dinner hour, to enter quietly, without formality or stiffness, and if your hostess does not introduce you enter into conversation with the person next to you.—Mrs. Sherwood in St. Louis Republic.

King Milan had great hopes of a plan for refilling his treasury by establishing public gaming tables at Belgrade, where the wealthy nobles of Hungary, Austria and Russia would come, but the czar and the emperor of Austria both forbade it.

When in St. Paul stop at The Clifton, 6th street, opposite new court house.

Money to Loan.

I am prepared to make loans on improved business and residence property in any amount at current rates. No delay.

S. M. CHANDLER.

At Stewart & Britts Bank.

In the Board of Trade Building.

M. R. Baldwin and R. F. Wilcutt, real estate men, who were recently burned out in the opera house, are now settled in Room 25, Board of Trade Building.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than any other, and can not be sold in competition of the multitude of low cost, short weight adulterated powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 10 Wall Street, New York.

CONTRACT WORK.

Office of Board of Public Works.

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 6th, 1890.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Public Works in and for the corporation of the City of Duluth, Minnesota, at their office in said city, until 3 p. m. on the 18th day of February, A. D. 1890, for the construction of a plank sidewalk on the north side of Michigan street in said city, between Garfield street and Seventeenth avenue west, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of said Board.

A certified check or a bond with at least two (2) cashables in sum of $10,000, must accompany each bid.

The said board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Official: GEO. T. HUGHES, Clerk of the Board of Public Works.

Feb. 6th.

ONE CENT A WORD COLUMN.

WANTED—BOARD AND ROOM IN A private family by gentleman and wife. Address K. Z. Reference exchanged.

TEAMS WANTED—TWO Teams for Metropolitan block or Merchants hotel.

WANTED TO BUY A SECOND HAND UP-right piano and organ. P. O. Box 58.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—BEST NEWS, CIGAR and confectionery stores in Duluth; a bargain. Address L. Duluth.

FOR RENT.

Rooms.

ROOMS FOR RENT—THREE ROOMS on first floor with pantry and closets, furnished or unfurnished for housekeeping, 214 3d ave east.

ROOM—NICELY FURNISHED ROOM FOR rent cheap at 24 Fourth avenue.

Houses.

HOUSES, HOUSES, WE HAVE several desirable houses to rent at a moderate price. By all means look at them. Kimberly, Stryker & Manley.

WE HAVE TWO VERY NICE HOUSES on East Fourth street for rent at a moderate price. By all means look at them. Kimberly, Stryker & Manley.

FOR RENT—A NICE NEW 10 ROOM BRICK house, with all modern improvements, 123 East Third street. Apply at 112 East Third street.

HOUSE FOR RENT—A ROOM HOUSE COR- ner Fourth avenue east and First street. Lowest to buy the carpets, window draperies and stoves now in the house. Possession given from first to middle of January G. G. Hartley, room 25 Duluth Union National building.

FOUND.

FOUND—A SMALL STEEL KEY, OWNER please come by, by calling at this office and paying for this notice.

FINANCIAL.

MONEY TO LOAN—REPRESENTING large company. Loans of any size negotiated promptly on low rates of interest. S. J. Urban, Room 7 Metropolitan block.

MONEY TO LOAN—GOOD BUILDING Loans a specialty. Insurance carefully written in responsible companies. Classes of Prudential, 305 Duluth National Bank building.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ARCHITECTS.

E. S. PALMER, J. PALMER & HALL, ARCHITECTS and Superintendents, Room 6 Exchange building, Duluth, Minn.

MCMILLAN & STEPHENS, ARCHITECTS and Superintendents. Office room No. Exchange building.

MUSIC.

MUSICAL LESSONS BY A NEW AND ORIGINAL method. Easy terms. Harry Harrington, No. 6 Opera block.

M. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLONIST. No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE West, and piano study: 113 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURNIER.

S. ORLIMAN, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURNIER. All kinds of fur cleaned, altered and repaired. See samples dried and colored a speciality 21 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC- ULIST.

PRESERVE YOUR EYE SIGHT—IF YOUR eyes blur, if you are troubled with old sight, near sight, far sight or astigmatism, try our spectacle and eye glasses. Results guaranteed. See prescriptions correctly filled. Nell, optician, Room E, Hunter Block.

TEACHER.

MISS MINNIE B. RAINY, TEACHER OF Voice Culture. 21 East Third street.

BOYCE & TOTMAN.

Are Headquarters for

TOILET ARTICLES.

NOTICE

In condemnation proceedings for widening Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, which includes a portion of all the blocks, lots and parcels of land on both sides of said Superior street between the points above named, did on the 18th day of January, A. D. 1890 file in the office of the City Clerk of said city a plat of the proposed improvement to be made, exhibiting the land or parcels of property required to be taken, and that the said commissioners will meet on Thursday, January 31st, 1890, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon on said day at the office of the City Clerk to hear all parties interested, and from there proceed to view the premises and assess or award the damages for the property to be taken.

Dated January 18, 1890.

ALONZ EMMER, Geo. H. CLAY, H. H. HARRINGTON, HENRY HARRINGTON, Commissioners.

Notice is hereby given that the meeting to take action in the above proceeding has been adjourned until Tuesday, Feb. 6th, at 10 a. m. at the city clerk's office.

GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY!

Murray's Specific.

Trade Mark. A guaranteed cure for all nervous diseases, such as Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Hysteria, Headache, Pain in the Back, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Leucorrhea, Universal Lassitude, Seminal Weakness, Impotency and general loss of power.

Races to cure any case. For every $5.00 order received, we send six boxes, with a written guarantee to refund the money after taking. If our specific does not effect a cure, address all communications to the sole manufacturers THE MURRAY MEDICAL CO., Kansas City, Mo.

Sold in Duluth by Max Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY HARRINGTON, Prop. and Mgr. Geo. E. KENT, Assistant Manager. ARTHUR NEWMAN, Stage Manager. PROF. H. DEBBE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1890.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs.

Komikal Sayings.

Read the list of Artists: Miss Ella Fentz, Keating & Matthews, Miss Lillie Mark, Lester Howard, Miss Emily Howard, Jerry Keating, Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howells Force Come By.

"NEMESIS."

Other Characters by the Stock Company. Look for a Great Show next week. Prices 25c, 50c and 75c.

JACKSON'S

THE

JEWELER.

SPECIAL PRICES DURING THIS MONTH TO BUYERS OF

DRY GOODS,

Carpets, Upholstery Goods,

And Wall Paper.

SEVERAL HUNDRED CLOAKS ARE YET TO BE DISPOSED OF. THE REDUCTIONS RANGE FROM

25 TO 75 PER CENT

From regular prices, affording an unusual opportunity to secure a reble article at less than manufacturer's cost. An inspection and comparison invited.

Wm. C. Sargent,

AMERICAN Exchange Bank.

CAPITAL.....$300,000

Surplus and Undivided Pro- fits.....$160,000

DIRECTORS

H. M. Peyton, Geo. Spencer, Chas. H. Upham

M. J. Forbes, A. H. Macfarlane

OFFICERS

H. M. Peyton, Treas. A. E. Macfarlane, Manager; Jas. C. Hunter, Cashier; Robert Cronin,

Asst. Cashier.

JUST ARRIVED!

25 DOZEN OF THE CELEBRATED

DUNLAP

HATS

THE LATEST STYLES

---AT---

J. T. CONDON'S,

Hatter & Men's Furnisher,

No. 1333 1/2 Opera Block, DULUTH, MINN.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR SLIPS

AND FALLS!

Moral: Insure in the Travelers.

WENDELL P. MOSHER,

Under Duluth Nat. Bank, Agent.

SEWERS CONNECTED.

P. V. DWYER & BROS.,

PLUMBERS

No. 16 Second Avenue West, Duluth.

HARWOOD'S

City Transportation, Freight & Express Drays

Office 17 First Ave. West.

MYERS & WHIPPLE,

Careful and Judicious Investments Always Sure to Pay. We have some Bargains on Hand. Money to Loan in any amount. If not on hands can negotiate any amount on good property. Insurance carefully written in the best of companies. Call or write us. Duluth National Bank Building.

HIGH

GRADE

GOODS

AT

LOW

GRADE

PRICES

AT

JACKSON'S

THE DAY IN THE CITY.

Wheat receipts just now are very small again owing to the late storms.

The Northern Pacific now runs daily vestibuled trains to Winnipeg.

Nine real estate transfers were filed yesterday, consideration $44,447.

H. S. Lord is attorney for C. O. Nelson in the Fifth ward election contest.

Last night showed visitors to the city some of Duluth's ideal winter weather.

The St. Louis hotel's old dining room will not be used as a theatre, the insurance men objecting.

The Locomotive Firemen's association is making preparations for a grand ball the 22nd of February at Sees hall.

President Henry Minot, of the Eastern, has returned from the east and came up to Duluth last night on one of his customary visits.

The office of the Duluth & Winnipeg syndicate has been moved to the basement of the board of trade, and is with Munger & Markell.

Minimum temperature this forenoon was 7 below.

A west wind hardly perceptible during the day has moderated considerably and less snowed.

The chamber of commerce will move in a day or two to the room in the Banning building lately vacated by the city engineer. The room is convenient, comfortable and of good size.

R. C. Kruiske will move in a few days into the store next to the new Parsons building. He will deal in guns and musical instruments, a queer combination, but one he has dealt in on Lake avenue for years.

A water main burst at Third avenue east yesterday afternoon and workmen are tearing up the pavement to repair it. Nothing will soon ruin the new pavement as a continued tearing up for repairs to water mains.

During the blizzard of yesterday morning a tree was blown down near Kerriek, on the Eastern Minnesota railway a few miles south of Superior, and fell across the tracks of four horses, killing them instantly. The driver was also seriously injured and may die.

Instead of the Flag River Brown Stone Co. as stated yesterday to be building a dock on Lake avenue, Quimby & Onis are the builders. They propose to handle a great quantity of Portage red stone during the year. Mr. Quimby is also interested in the Flag River Co.

Total damages awarded in the condemnation proceedings of the Eastern road to property along the tracks between Sixth and Twelfth avenues west amount to $227,187. A large part of the ground needed did not figure in this total, being purchased at private sale. It costs money to get good Duluth real estate, even by condemnation.

The Minnesota Commandery of the Loyal Legion held its stated meeting at the Ryan in St. Paul last evening. The paper of the evening was read by Col. Josiah W. Biss, the subject being "The Western Organization of Colored People for Furloughing in formation to United States Troops in the South." A half a dozen Duluth members of the organization were present at the meeting.

Very careful and painstaking work has been done by those who have in hand the drafting of a city charter for West Duluth, and they claim to have a charter that for completeness, ease of interpretation, and brevity, is equal to anything in the west. Hon. W. K. Rodgers has had much to do with the formation of the charter, which is of itself a guarantee of excellence and thoroughness.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own. I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON Jeweler.

Card Etiquette.

One gentleman asks: "If seven or eight ladies are staying in one house—say, Mrs. Taylor and two daughters, Mrs. Brown and three daughters, and the Misses Sinclair, suppose I wish to call on them all, how many cards or eight cards, or shall I simply call on the hostess?"

Simply call on the hostess and ask for the others, we should say, or possibly on the two married ladies, inquiring for the others. There is common sense in etiquette, as there is in everything else, and a gentleman should decide these questions for himself, not leave cards in packs. A card is one's self, and must be treated as such. It is the beginning and the end of etiquette, the alpha and the omega of social intercourse. The card is the first introduction and final leave taking. These little pieces of white pasteboard, if imperishable, will, in their amount, their many inscriptions, puzzle the New Zealanders who disinters New York, after 400 years, as the Schlemmings of today are digging up old Troy. "What are they?" they all ask. "Do they represent the money of that buried people?"

Indeed, the card business, being the social exchange of society, multiplies itself so indefinitely that a card once suggested that there should be a clearing house for cards, where Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Jones should leave their cards for each other on the 1st of January, and the interchange afterward be managed by clerks. The idea is a good one, but, unfortunately, impracticable, as the sentiment of personal friendship and attention still lingers around the card—Mrs. Sherwood in St. Louis recollects.

TIT FOR TAT.

He timidly climbed up the brown stone steps. He felt that this visit might be his last. Though the reason he couldn't tell.

As he stood at the door the winter wind whined in the shutters above. But above his roaring he heard her say, "John, tell him that I am out."

Then timid so more, with stately mien, He said to the butler, "Pray go to Miss Jones with my compliments And tell her I didn't call."

—Williams' Weekly.

The Matinee Girl.

Where do you suppose the matinee girl carries her money? She is tired of being told that the pretty silver clasp, pocketbook may be matched from her hand, and she is beginning to take with anxiety to the newest thing in cash holders, which is a soft ooze leather bracelet, rather decorative than otherwise, which has a receptacle for change just where the watch rested a month or two ago on the back of the wrist. The bracelet is worn on the left arm. It has a simple clasp, easily manipulated, and when car fare or button money is wanted there it is close by, perfectly safe and leaving the hands free for other small burdens.

Another contrivance which greatly simplifies life for the matinee girl is a small plush bag which looks just large enough to hold her opera glass. But wait until she opens it. There is the glass, with its gold and pearl mountings, safe enough. There also is a tiny compartment for the silver bonbon box, another for the purse, another for the silver and crystal vinaigrette, another for ivory tablets, yet another for the lace handkerchief, and sometimes still others for rose water or powder puffs. It is multifarious in purpose, most of the luxuries of life in compact form. The matinee girl would not like to stir without it, for, little as it is, with it she is fully armed for the social fray.—Philadelphia Times.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc., at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's.

Try The MAGNOLIA CIGAR.

—AT— BOYCE & TOTMAN'S.

A WOMAN'S BARBER SHOP.

WHERE BANGS ARE TRIMMED AND TONGUES ARE FLEET.

It isn't so Awfully Different from a Man's Shop. Only the Customers Do the Talking Instead of the Barber—The Disputed Woman in Charge Explains.

Just around an up town Broadway corner is a woman's barber shop, with the wisest, wittiest, merriest woman barber at the head of it, with a naughty dimple in one cheek, a pair of keen, bright, laughing eyes, and a lot of soft brown hair twisted up in loops that shine like gold in the sunlight.

There isn't a woman in the entire town that knows so much of human nature, or has a greater fund of personal anecdotes and reminiscences of the ladies whose names fill the columns of the society papers than this merry philosopher, whose keen eyes see every folly and weakness, but whose lips keep their counsel well.

When the twenty-fifth customer comes in and rattles on about the lovely lady she should have, so long that she could sit on it, and so heavy that she couldn't pull a comb through it, only a suspicious quiver in the dimple suggests that possibly she has heard that story something like a million times before from as many different women, and when a fussy man comes in to superintend his wife's coiffure, suggesting sundry changes in the arrangement in the hope of improving her faded charms, she puts the brushes on the dimple, and only after the door is closed behind them she remarks, crisply: "If that man expects me to make a beauty of his wife he's got to get a different woman for me to work on. So use waiting time on her."

NOT UNDER THIRTY-DOLLAR BONNETS.

There is little similarity between this place and a man's barber shop, where men sit in a cloud of smoke as thick as a London mist waiting for the welcome and familiar "Good morning" or "Next?" or "Tilt back in a chair, starting at a lot of pigeonholes full of caps while the barber grins out of their earholes and trips up the steps of a brown stone house, where on a silver door plate is inscribed the hairdresser's name, and ring the bell. A pink and white low voiced little maiden, in a black jersey and long white apron, opens the door, and where there is a large light parlor, where they lay aside their wraps and follow her to another room, lined with mirrors, carpeted with velvet and exquisitely clean.

Other girls, in long white aprons and black jerseys, are brushing the lustrous hair of the women, who sit about leisurely in the crimson cushioned chairs.

"Why do women have so little hair nowadays?" sighs a pretty woman of 30, with about one hair where she ought to have 300.

"Because they don't take care of it," answers the hairdresser, as the woman's barber is called. "They never brush it at all, or else they don't half do it. They dig away at it with a fine tooth comb just because their grandmothers did, and never wash it at all, or else twice a year, when they clean house, scour it out with borax and ammonia. These are the very worst things in the world to use on the hair. Then they curl it and fix it with too hot tongs, and break it all off and never trim the ends, wear round hats that cover it all up, and never give it a chance to breathe, as you might say, or get a bit of fresh air or sunshine, and then wonder why they don't have any hair. Nice ladies, too, they are so flustered they don't know what they are doing. They eat their breakfast without taking a bath, will carry around a year's accumulation of dirt under their $30 bonnets and feel dressed up."

"How often ought a lady to have her hair attended to?"

"She ought to attend to it herself every night and morning with a good stiff brush, and then go to a hairdresser once a month for the hair should be thoroughly cleaned with Castile soap and water. Why, my regular customers have their own brushes here, and come as often as once a week. Look!" And opening a cupboard door, she exhibited rows and rows of heavy English brushes, each bearing on the handle the name of the owner, and each accompanied by two smaller brushes for cleaning the scalp. "Some of 'em are such fussy things they won't even look in my hand glass, you see, and bring their own shoddy, pointing to the celluloid mirrors tied up with some of the brushes.

"How much does it cost to keep the hair in nice order for a year?"

"Oh, not more than $30 or $40, but a great many ladies come in to have their hair dressed two or three times a week, you know, and then they spend $100, or perhaps more, in one year. I charge fifty cents for clipping a bang and $1 for a shampoo."

A VERY LIVELY PLACE.

A bright faced girl came tripping in to have her hair dressed preparatory to being photographed. In a twinkling a big white apron was tied around her neck over the director's dress of dull green, and a heavy mass of hair of Titian's color fell below her waist.

"You don't mean to say that you want that hair dressed just as it is?"

"Certainly, why not?"

"It isn't fit to dress, all dirt like that, and so dirty it sticks together. Most any woman who had hair heavy and long like that would know enough to appreciate it."

"Oh, I hate the color of it so, I never cared to fuss with it. Red hair and white horses," she said with a little grimace.

"Yes, but that hair is stylish, you know, now. Why, it is considered the greatest beauty in some countries," and before the girl really had time to object one of the soft voiced, soft handed assistants was scrubbing some kind of a lotion in a silver cup on to her scalp with a sharp little brush, and the next she knew all the mass of hair was floating in a marble bowl, with alternate streams of hot and cold water playing upon it, all neatly and skillfully accomplished that not a drop of moisture soiled the pretty gown. And then leaning back in a rocking chair, while the attendant tossed the shining strands above a heater, she chatted away to her sister in the communicative strain a woman always drifts into when her hair is out.

"Now, if the expression in this picture will only be good, I never have any expression in a picture."

The busiest hours in the woman's barber shop are from 11 until 2 and from 4 to 6. Some of the ladies rush in from a shopping expedition or their way to an entertainment; in a pause, to have half an hour's work done in ten minutes, and others lounge about half the morning, chatting and luxuriating in the languid pleasures of being fussed over, just as they linger in the Turkish baths. There are old women and young women and little children, women with flowing tresses and women the hairs of whose heads could be easily numbered by the poorest kind of a mathematician, women who want their hair bleached to hide the gray hair, and women who want it dyed, some please their husbands and others who wouldn't have their husbands know it for the world, and the way they all need to have lovely hair and the interest they each manifest in the cut and curl of their own tresses, and the special bright, sparkling chatter and chatter of the manager into the woman's barber shop very few men could keep a place.—New York Sun.

Black Hair or None.

Boarder (heartily to landlady)—Madam, I have just found one of the blackest of black hairs in my soup. This is outrageous!

Landlady (smiling)—Oh, outrageous, is it? Well, if you think I'm going to hire a red headed cook just to suit your taste you're mistaken. It's black hair or none, for the present.—Cleveland Union.

The finest Line of Optical goods in the city at

BOYCE & TOTMAN.

Are Headquarters for TOILET ARTICLES.

When in St. Paul stop at The Clifton, 5th street, opposite new court house.

Money to Loan.

I am prepared to make loans on improved business and real estate property in any amount at current rates. No delay.

S. M. CRANDLER, At Stewart & Britts Bank.

In The Board of Trade Building.

M. R. Baldwin and R. F. Wilcox, real estate men, who were recently burned out in the opera house, are now settled in Room 25, Board of Trade Building.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

For Rent.

For rent 8 room house corner Fourth avenue east and First street. Lessee to buy the carpets, window draperies and stove now in the house. Possession given from first to middle of January. J. G. Hartley, room 202 Duluth Union National building.

Fire Insurance.

Insurance carefully written in old and reliable companies by Wm. C. Sherwood & Co.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can be sold in competition of the multitude of low cost, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Beware of cheap imitations.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 Wall Street, New York.

CONTRACT WORK.

Office of Board of Public Works, Duluth, Minn., Feb. 6th, 1889.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Public Works in and for the corporation of the City of Duluth, Minnesota, at their office in said city, on or before the 10th day of February, A. D. 1889, for the construction of a plank sidewalk on the north side of Michigan street in said city, between Garfield avenue and Superior street, and the widening, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of said board.

A certified check or a bond with at least two sureties in the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, payable to the order of the board, shall accompany each bid.

The said board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MIRON BURNELL, President, P. B. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works, Feb. 6th.

ONE CENT A WORD COLUMN.

FOR RENT.

ROOMS.

FOR RENT—A DESIRABLE ROOM FOR lady and gentleman or two gentlemen with board and use of bath room. Mrs. Morgan, 227 West Superior street.

ROOMS FOR RENT—THREE ROOMS ON first floor with pantry and closets, furnished and equipped for housekeeping. $14 per week. 244 1/2 Ave. East.

ROOM—NICELY FURNISHED ROOM FOR rent cheap at 224 Fourth avenue.

HOUSES.

HOUSES, HOUSES—HOUSES, WITH VE nery desirable houses for rent at a nominal figure. Prices range from $6 to $25, and all are bargains. If you have any desire to rent a house call on us. Kimberly, Stryker & Manley.

WE HAVE TWO VERY NICE HOUSES on East Fourth street for rent at a moderate price. If all means look at them. Kimberly, Stryker & Manley.

FOR RENT—A NICE NEW 10 ROOM BRICK house, with all modern improvements, 120 Third street. Apply at 112 East Third street.

HOUSE FOR RENT—3 ROOM HOUSE COR ner Fourth avenue and First street. Lessee to buy the carpets, window draperies and stove now in the house. Possession given from first to middle of January. J. G. Hartley, room 202 Duluth Union National building.

FINANCIAL.

MONEY TO LOAN—REPRESENTING M eastern capitalists, bankers and a mort gage company, loans a specialty. Loans carefully written in responsible companies. Clague & Prindle, 262 Duluth National Bank building.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ARCHITECTS.

R. S. PALMER, L. P. HALL, LALLMEYER & HALL, ARCHITECTS AND SUPERINTENDENTS, Room 26 Exchange building, Duluth, Minn.

MCILLIEN & STEBBINS, ARCHITECTS and superintendents. Office room No. 26 Exchange building.

MUSIC.

UTAR LESSONS BY A NEW AND ORIGINAL method. Easy terms. Harry Harrington, No. 6 Open block.

M. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST. May be seen or addressed at his studio, No. 8 Ninth block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. F. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE and piano study. 118 Third avenue west.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

GEORGE A. N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER kinds of furs cleaned, altered and repaired. Suits, dresses, coats and robes. 101 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel, Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OCULIST.

PRESERVE YOUR EYE SIGHT—IF YOUR eyes blur, if you are troubled with old sight, near sight, far sight or astigmatism, try our spectacle and eye glasses. Results guaranteed. Located at residence correctly fitted. Neil, optician, Room 2, Hunter block.

TEACHER.

MISS MINNIE B. RAINEY, TEACHER OF Voice Culture. 21 East Third street.

BOYCE & TOTMAN.

Are Headquarters for TOILET ARTICLES.

NOTICE

In condemnation proceedings for widening Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the taking of private property for the widening of Superior street in said city from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, which includes a portion of all the blocks, lots and parcels of land on both sides of said Superior street between the points above named did on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1889, file in the office of the City Clerk of said city a plat of the proposed improvement to be made, exhibiting the land or parcels of property required to be taken, and that the January 25th, 1889, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the office of the City Clerk of said city all parties interested in and from there proceed to view the premises and assess or award the damages for the property to be taken.

Dated January 16, 1889.

Attest: GEORGE H. CLAYTON, City Clerk.

Commissioners: HERMAN SILVERSTEIN, J. H. KENT, Assistant Manager, H. A. REINE, Treasurer, GEORGE NEWKAMP, Stage Manager, PROF. H. BEBLE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs, Ballads and Komikak Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz, Keating & Matthews, Miss Libbie Clark, Lester Howard, Miss Emma Howard, Jerry Keating, Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howard's Funny Faro Comedy.

"NEMESIS," Other Characters by the same company.

2nd Look for a Great Show next week. Prices 25c, 50c and 75c.

Sold in Duluth by Mrs. Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY BARRETT, Prop. and Mgr. GEO. H. KENT, Assistant Manager, H. A. REINE, Treasurer, GEORGE NEWKAMP, Stage Manager, PROF. H. BEBLE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs, Ballads and Komikak Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz, Keating & Matthews, Miss Libbie Clark, Lester Howard, Miss Emma Howard, Jerry Keating, Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howard's Funny Faro Comedy.

"NEMESIS," Other Characters by the same company.

2nd Look for a Great Show next week. Prices 25c, 50c and 75c.

Sold in Duluth by Mrs. Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY BARRETT, Prop. and Mgr. GEO. H. KENT, Assistant Manager, H. A. REINE, Treasurer, GEORGE NEWKAMP, Stage Manager, PROF. H. BEBLE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs, Ballads and Komikak Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz, Keating & Matthews, Miss Libbie Clark, Lester Howard, Miss Emma Howard, Jerry Keating, Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howard's Funny Faro Comedy.

"NEMESIS," Other Characters by the same company.

2nd Look for a Great Show next week. Prices 25c, 50c and 75c.

Sold in Duluth by Mrs. Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY BARRETT, Prop. and Mgr. GEO. H. KENT, Assistant Manager, H. A. REINE, Treasurer, GEORGE NEWKAMP, Stage Manager, PROF. H. BEBLE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs, Ballads and Komikak Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz, Keating & Matthews, Miss Libbie Clark, Lester Howard, Miss Emma Howard, Jerry Keating, Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howard's Funny Faro Comedy.

"NEMESIS," Other Characters by the same company.

2nd Look for a Great Show next week. Prices 25c, 50c and 75c.

Sold in Duluth by Mrs. Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY BARRETT, Prop. and Mgr. GEO. H. KENT, Assistant Manager, H. A. REINE, Treasurer, GEORGE NEWKAMP, Stage Manager, PROF. H. BEBLE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs, Ballads and Komikak Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz, Keating & Matthews, Miss Libbie Clark, Lester Howard, Miss Emma Howard, Jerry Keating, Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howard's Funny Faro Comedy.

"NEMESIS," Other Characters by the same company.

2nd Look for a Great Show next week. Prices 25c, 50c and 75c.

Sold in Duluth by Mrs. Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY BARRETT, Prop. and Mgr. GEO. H. KENT, Assistant Manager, H. A. REINE, Treasurer, GEORGE NEWKAMP, Stage Manager, PROF. H. BEBLE, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company. Opening with our own pleasure party in songs, Ballads and Komikak Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz, Keating & Matthews,

_____

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

Makes Washing easy and pleasant. SAVES

Every family should use it.

Auntie don't use anything but SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

Money, Labor,
Time.

Ask your Grocer for
SANTA CLAUS
SOAP
and

For all household uses it has no equal it is
HANDY
HANDSOME
and sells for

I am Mamma's
Pansy Blossom

We all like
SANTA CLAUS
SOAP

INSIST
on testing it
for yourself.

FIVE CENTS A CAKE. Made only by
All grocers should keep it.

N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., CHICAGO.

old uses
it has no equal it is HANDY
HANDSOME
and sells for
FIVE CENTS A CAKE. Made only by
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., CHICAGO.

and sells for FIVE CENTS A CAKE. Made only by N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., CHICAGO. for yourself. All grocers should keep it.

equal SOAP

equal it is HANDY

WE all like
SANTA CLAUS

SOAP
and INSIST
on testing it

and sells for SOAP for yourself.

FIVE CENTS A CAKE. Made only by All grocers should keep it.
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., CHICAGO.

© 2006 The Authors
Journal compilation © 2006 Blackwell Publishing Ltd

BELL & EYSTER'S BANK

AND

SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS
NO 3 WEST SUPERIOR STREET.
PAID IN CAPITAL - - - $100,000.00

ENRY H. BELL MANAGER.

BARGAINS !
— IN —

Carpets and Draperies

Previous to taking inventory. The best opportunity new year is now to supply your wants in this line for your household.

H. -- BEIER,
30 E. Superior street.

---

WITHOUT A RIVAL

_____

All work turned out by the Evening Herald Building

the prices changed at the same time than are demanded for inferior work by smaller establishments. Everything in the line of Ruling and Binding done promptly and the competition of large cities successfully met

It we cannot do work as satis-

[illegible]

make figures. Our work will show for itself.

A DISCOURSE ON SIGNS.

A Herald Reporter Finds a Good Deal of Interest Regarding Them.

The Rules of the Sign Writer's Art—How Much Handsome Work Costs.

"A new era has dawned in sign making, and the day has passed when a man of average ability can make a successful sign painter," said a gentleman in that business, whose time is in constant demand to a Herald reporter. "Yes, the man who would make a success nowadays must be above everything an artist, and one of no mean talent and we had workmen in the business in Duluth. He must have an eye capable of distinguishing every shade of color, must be able to blend and compare his colors so they will be pleasing to the eye. He must have a hand that is steady and true, and he must have a head that is capable of appreciating the fact that distance is an important factor in sign making. By this means must make his characters of such size and proportion, that when a sign is placed on the wall of a building, the sign in upper stories of a five story building, you will notice that, if a man understands his business, the sign will be of simple and severe form, and from each other, so that the street words can be easily read. The color, too, is usually white, gilt, or some other color, and the sign is placed on the wall of a building, so that the sign is close by, the form of the letters become more complex, and here the really artistic is shown. For example, let me refer you to the American Loan and Trust company's sign in the Exchange building. It is a complex and difficult piece of work, and makes an announcement of the business that corporation is in, as one would want to see. Every letter is intricate form, and the colors harmonize. The words 'Sporting headquarters' written in gilt on a salmon near Lake avenue, are also well executed, the letters being as perfect as though they were carved. The 'Northwestern' sign in another sign also shows skill in the art and is another good example.

But we get for our work? Well, that is a difficult question to answer, depending as it does on material, complexity of character, size used in making, etc. But perhaps I can give you a general idea of the subject. Plain, bold gold letters cost from 75 cents to $1.50 a foot. Now a foot does not mean the entire height of the painted part of the sign, but the width, and the length of the sign. The sign between the top and bottom of the words on the sign. As the letters deviate from plain outline work, with ornate, many sized letters, are charged for up to $2.50 and more a foot. The Northwestern sign cost $100 a foot. The sign in the sign is worth $2.00 a foot. The window signs of the American Loan and Trust company cost perhaps $75. Charlie Schiller has an artistic window sign and the sign on it cost, I should judge about $40. Gold board signs, which are the most expensive, are the Boyle Bros. and Pioneer Fuel company's, cost at least $100 a foot. Pantan and Watson's is made of raised gilt letters, manufactured in the east and probably cost them $250 a foot. Burrows and Company, the largest sign makers in town, cost fully as much. There isn't a cent more in board signs as in window or door ones. Sign makers, which usually takes a day or two, takes off the board, and the sign is white letter board signs are cheap, fifty cents per foot being the usual rate. Metal signs cost from ten to twenty dollars for the work alone, the material being extra. Tin drum signs are of expensive make, and cost from $10 to $20 a foot. Ordinary flat tin ones come at $1.75 to $4.00 each. A small board sign would cost you about $2. Board signs, such as you see in the big drug stores, are painted for from 50 cents to $1, depending on the size and amount of ornament. The rule of measurement I spoke of a few minutes ago, not apply to signs painted on buildings, such signs as 'Parsons Business College,' 'Garfield House' and others. These are charged for at the rate of 10 to 15 cents per square foot. You are surprised that sign painting is such an interesting subject to discuss on. Why, there isn't a man in town who doesn't know something about it. I'll give you some more pointers, so long."

TO QUOTE TITLE.

W. H. SARGENT, a water front property owner, Judge Stearns was down from Duluth yesterday to explain to the senate committee on judiciary and the water front property along the shore line of St. Louis bay and Duluth harbor the title to certain submerged lands. The owners are now possessed of all the riparian rights pertaining to the lots that are under water, and the water front property is in proper way to improve, but still the naked fee of the land is in the state, and they cannot give a complete and perfect title in case they sell any of the lots. Some of them have sold, and certain pieces on Duluth harbor brought as high as $200 a lot. The owners are now seeking to obtain a fee so that they can give a full title. Their riparian rights have been fully confirmed by the supreme court. Judge Stearns also appeared before the committee on behalf of the title to create an additional judge for the Duluth district.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own.

I will meet any competition in my line, no matter where from, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul, said ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler.

Don't risk it any Longer.

Myers & Whipple.

We have several bargains in desirable lots. Call at Wm. C. Sherwood & Co's room 5 Metropolitan block.

Money to loan in small to suit upon improved business property.

S. M. CHANDLER, At Stewart & Britt's Bank.

The soft glow of the tea room is acquired by ladies who use Foxon's Completion Powder. Try it.

W. G. SARGENT's coal and wood office is corner Superior street, and Third avenue corner Duluth National Bank building.

Excursion Tickets South.

"The North Western Line"—Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad—will sell tickets to many of the principal points in the south at greatly reduced rates on following dates:

December 15th, January 15th and 25th, February 15th and 25th, and March 15th and 25th, tickets will be sold to return within 90 days from date of sale, and privilege of stop over at points east of Ohio river. Calls at city or depot office of "The North Western Line."

Geo. M. Smith, General Agent.

PERMANENTLY LOCATED.

In the Spalding House Building.

The West Duluth Land company has secured the room just east of the main entrance in the Spalding house. The location is good and in the future, this company can be found at the above location.

A LOVER'S PRAYER.

(Sighs, alone I stand. Give me your hand; Lead me across life's turmoil and despair; Take me away to Love's sweet blossom land, Out of this darkness into light and air. Give me your hand, to wander through my hair, To pass across my forehead, let it touch my lips, just once, that mirror you are fair. And tender, sweet! I do not ask for much: Give me your hand!)

Midnight has closed its round. Give me your eyes, That may gaze to see life's loneliness, And gaze into a mirrored paradise. Where we may wander on, no less, no less Give me your eyes, that I may look you through, Unfold your soul, discover how your heart Trembles at love's awakening. Ah, you—You will be merciful. Ere I depart, Give me your eyes!

Behold your suppliant! Give me your heart! Wait also it is in that is very true. Your woman's sanctity, the counterpart Of life's pearls give you that endure: Give your heart, that I may seal it round With beads of prayer, and roses replete With deepening. Let me see I've found A way to peace out of life's darkness again: Give me your heart!—Gentle South to America.

WE TWO.

Why should we grieve, we two, if all the world Bows down and frowns by us, and on us hurled Boughs and arrows? Plain, bold, and true, We still should joy, for is not love our cure?

Yes, love is everything to you and me, For love and you and I are one; let be Boughs and arrows? Plain, bold, and true, We still should joy, for is not love our cure?

What if all else should die: the moon and sun Should fade, yet would we still be one, And the fever of our passion sweet Would laugh at death, since life would be complete.

—Boston Globe.

THE STORY OF A DOG.

A NOBLE AND UNUSUALLY WELL TRAINED SETTER.

The Things He Would Do for His Master Were Almost Marvellous—The Last Command Cost Jack His Life—The Story Vouched for by a Chicago Sportsman.

This is the story of a dog. He was a noble animal, and a thoroughly well trained. His owner, a sportsman, was just as good as water on land. You don't have to urge him to jump over the side of a boat. The first time I saw him was at the Northwestern depot at Chicago. I was going to Fox Lake, Ill., for a week's hunting, and a friend, just after we got through the gate, a man came down the platform followed by a dog. Although there was a big crowd, the dog was allowed to run loose—he was led by no chain or thong. We both remarked at the time that he was a magnificent animal, and watched him as he was trotting along behind his master. They went to the baggage car and the man spoke a word to the baggage man. The latter pointed to a corner of the car. The dog's owner made a motion in the same direction and the intelligent animal jumped into the car and curled up in that corner. The baggage man wanted to let him to something, but the owner said to him: "He'll stay there all right," he said. And he did. When we got off at McHenry, where we had to take a steamer, the dog was still lying in that corner of the baggage car. His owner went forward and called him. He jumped. Of course we were more than over-impressed with the fact that he was a valuable dog.

ALWAYS DID AS TOLD.

That night at Fox Lake we got acquainted with the owner. He was a Chicago sportsman, and the largest I had met. He called him Hunter. I'll call him Hunter—it's as good as any other. He was proud of the dog, of course, and told us a good many stories about what he had done and what he could do. He was trained to perfection.

"I'll fetch me anything I tell him to," said Hunter, after he had warmed up a bit. "Why, if I told him to bring me that pool table he'd do it."

We all laughed, of course. "Come down a little," said the proprietor of the hotel.

"No, I won't," retorted Hunter, hotly. "I'll bet you the cigers he'll bring it to me, I tell him to."

The proprietor looked astonished. "Well, I don't mind smoking with you," he said at last. "Send him for it."

He was promptly sent. He ran to the pool table and looked around in an undecided way. "That's right," exclaimed his master. "Fetch it."

He looked around again, apparently for something to catch hold of. His eyes fell on one of the pockets, and in a twinkling he had wrenched it off and laid it at his master's feet.

"Good boy," said Hunter, patting him. "Now get me some more."

"Here," yelled the proprietor. "That costs money."

"Of course," replied Hunter, calmly. "Bring me some more, you about $2."

Jack had been gnawing on one of the table's legs. "You mean to destroy the table?" cried the landlord.

"Well, of course he's got to bring it in sections," said Hunter. "He can't drag the whole table, but if you'll give him time he'll get it all here."

And I believe he would. He was the slave of his master's word, and he did it. However, the landlord admitted his defeat to save his table. The next time I saw Hunter and Jack was about five minutes later. My friend and I were on one side of the little river, when Hunter barked at the dog from the other side.

"What time of guns have you?" he asked. I replied that mine was 12 and my friend's a 10.

"Can you let me have 10 cartridges?" he called. "I'm shot out."

"Certainly," shouted my friend. "I'll get them across. I'll try and throw some to you if you'll undertake to catch them."

"O, no," he said. "Wait."

He sat down and pulled off one of his rubber boots. Then he doubled the top over and gave it to Jack. Jack swam over with it, we put the cartridges in it and he took it back. We were more in love with him than ever.

The next day Hunter gave us another exhibition of the dog's fidelity. One of us took his hat, one of his gloves and his handkerchief, and put them in separate places about thirty feet apart. The dog lay by his master watching the proceedings.

"Now which do you want him to get?" asked Hunter.

"The glove," said I.

"Let's," ordered Hunter, and to the left Jack went and got the glove. We tried him a number of times, but he understood the left, right and center better than a good many theatre ushers. And he was not a trick dog either—he was a hunting dog.

THE MASTER'S SORROW.

Before the week was ended everybody in the vicinity of the place was just about in love with Jack. Hunter, of course, thought that he was doing nothing but he could not do it if he was told, as the sequel shows.

Hunter came back one day without him. To use a slang expression, he "looked all broken up," and returned in answer to the greetings given him. He went straight to his room and in a short time came down dressed for travel.

"What's your bill?" he asked.

"You're not going?" exclaimed the landlord.

"Yes," he returned, sharply.

"But where's your dog?"

"Dead," he replied, in a tone that put an end to all further questioning. Then, abruptly: "Do you know any one who wants a hunting outfit?"

Hunter had the handsomest outfit in the place. It must have cost several hundred dollars.

"What's the matter, Hunter?" asked a Chicago sportsman.

"Mother and New born babe."

Agitation or excitement to the mother came directly and speedily upon the child. The bond between them is so close that the baby feels the effect of mental emotion with a rapidity astonishing to those who have not had a study of the nearness of the connection. A case in point was that of a young mother whose new born baby was apparently in perfect condition until it was three days old. It had nursed without trouble until that time, but on the fourth day it failed to do so. On the fifth day it died. The mother was a batch of letters to the mother, and as they were apparently chiefly congratulatory, she was permitted to open and read them. Among them was one from a former intimate friend, and it was written in ignorance of the unfortunate fate of the young mother in cutting short her life. The mother had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious. When the mother was permitted to open the letter, she had been weakened by a recent strain, the sequences were much more serious.

BLUNDERS AT THE ALTAR.

AMUSING HAPPENINGS AT THE MARRIAGE SERVICE.

A Procer Relates His Experiences—The Ceremony from First to Last Is Full of Hilarity for the Untrained—The Old Folks Made a Mistake.

Some ludicrous errors committed by the bride and groom and about their friends as they stood before the altar are related by a procer in the Chambers Journal.

Timothy Duggan was a storekeeper, perhaps six feet two in height and proportionately broad. He appeared as a bridegroom; the bride was a charming young person of tender years. All went well until the moment came for Timothy and his bride to give their troth to each other in the prescribed manner.

"Say after me," said I to Timothy, "I, Timothy."

There was no response.

"Say after me," repeated the procer, "I, Timothy."

Timothy was still silent, a puzzled look creeping over his broad face.

"Say after me," said I for the third time, with, perhaps, a shade of annoyance.

"After you, sir," responded Timothy, with the politest possible degree of the ring in his hand.

But this indifference to the rally was so great that upon the injunction, "Place the ring on the third finger," I have more than once seen the bridegroom clutch the ring in his third finger of his own hand with all the complacency in the world. Once I detected a bridegroom making a mistake of this kind, and to the bride's knowledge and to the bride's knowledge, I said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been so placid, now became very nervous. He said to the bride: "Place the ring on the third finger."

But the bridegroom, who had been

THE DAY IN THE CITY.

An effort is being made to organize a public library association in West Superior. Real estate men are looking for an unprecedented boom in West Duluth in the spring. Sargent has moved his coal office to the basement of the Duluth National bank building. Austin & Partridge's insurance office has been moved from the St. Louis hotel to the Exchange building.

The friends of Little Willie Fox, who have been missing for the past two days are very anxious as to his whereabouts. Minimum temperature this morning was 7° above zero. The day has been dull and cold with a sharp north-west wind.

General city business is reported as being much better than a month ago, the cold weather having started up everything.

New London claims that it will have a bigger boom than ever during the coming summer. It hopes to have a large population by the end of the year.

The incident strike at the Adams hardwood factory yesterday amounted to nothing and the company has a full force of carpenters at work today.

Dr. Sweeney and the fish hatchery are constantly besieged nowadays with visitors. Both the doctor and the young fish seem to stand indifferently well.

Valuable railroad news is expected to be given to the public in Duluth in a few days. There is said to be a most important railroad development pending.

A number of good business buildings will be put up in the east end this year, the proposed building of the Masonic building having made considerable activity in that section.

The West Duluth Land company does not believe in delay. It declared a dividend of $15,000 Tuesday morning and yesterday is closed were sent out to stockholders.

What is being done to secure for Duluth the appointment of a superior steamship inspector of this district? Some good man could probably get it. The office is an inactive and important one.

A most pleasant social was given by the Unity club last night at the Old Fellows building and there was a large attendance. After the supper which was excellent, dancing was indulged in to a late hour.

The bill to allow the city of Red Wing to sell bonds for building a bridge across the Mississippi for the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern road has passed both houses of the state legislature and is now a law.

There is a rumor that a case of small pox has occurred in one of the lumber camps of the Superior lumber company down the south shore. It is impossible at present to find out whether or not it is true. It seems to be the general impression that it is a false alarm given to hurry up the vaccination process.

The Lincoln club of Duluth, has filed articles of association with the secretary of state. It is of a political nature and for the purpose of promoting Republican interests. The officers are: President, Page Morris; first vice president, M. O. Hall; second vice president, M. A. Hayes; secretary, George T. Hughes; treasurer, D. K. Osborne.

The lake is now frozen as far as the eye can see and it is now from two to three feet deep. There is a rumor that a case of small pox has occurred in one of the lumber camps of the Superior lumber company down the south shore. It is impossible at present to find out whether or not it is true. It seems to be the general impression that it is a false alarm given to hurry up the vaccination process.

Twelve real estate transfers were filed yesterday with the register of deeds, consideration $142,535, the largest being one for $120,000 from G. W. Norton, of Louisville to John C. Hunter and others the east of south west 1/4 section 23 and lot 1 section 24 town 43 north range 15. This acre will be platted at once and put on the market as an addition to West Duluth.

Some very heavy machinery for finishing and moulding steel plates and beams will soon be placed in the ship yard. One machine will punch a two inch hole through a sheet of steel an inch thick as easily as it is cheese. It will be a fortunate day for the Steel Barge company when the Duluth Steel company has its ultimate plant in operation and is able to furnish the great plates and beams needed for the vessels to be built.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own. I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul. ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler.

Quarrelling Over Mere Trifles. The truth is that English are more like Americans and Americans more like English than any other two sets of human beings. It is much like the difference between Oxford and Cambridge men or between guests and hosts. That is why such a watchful eye is kept on the differences, and why we squabble like—sisters-in-law. I am not speaking of international questions, where national interests are concerned. If we are to fight about them, which may God forbid let us fight like brothers indeed, but also like gentlemen. Do not let us run about quarrelling as to whether the Americans talk through their noses, and whether we drop our aspirates; about whether American volunteers could whip the German army; about whether American literature is as good as Scotch; about whether American architecture is as bad as English; about the comparative demerits of a suddenly-enriched bonanza man and a deprived English peer; about whether American ladies are prettier than their sisters of England; about all the rigmarole of anonymous people in the journals, and all the acerbities of criticisms of originality and straining after a style.—Andrew Lang in Murray's Magazine.

THE FIRST KISS. If only in dreams may man be fully blest, Is heaven a dream? Is she I clasped a dream? Or stood she here then now where dewdrops gleam?

Any miles of furze shine golden down the west I seem to catch her still—still on my breast. Her brown locks; I see the blue eyes beam; I think she kisses these lips, for now they seem to glow; so follow'd of the lips they press! You tricker's breath—can that be explained? These lips—can they be morning's exclamation? Can lips be earth? Can these be tanks of furze? Like burning bushes fired of God they shine! I seem to know them through life's body of mine. Passed into spirit at the touch of hers.—Theodore Watts in London Athenaeum.

Butter Inspection in France. Among the recent decrees made in France is one relating to the inspection of butter for the repression of fraudulent dealings. By special persons are authorized to take samples of butter in any place, whether the butter is exposed for sale, stored in a warehouse or in transit by land or water. No obstacle is to be thrown in the way of this, and all way bills, receipts, bills of lading, or declarations must be shown on demand. Each sample taken is to be subjected to a special examination. Pure butter, mixed butter, margarine, oleomargarine, and grease intended for consumption, forwarded in transit must be contained in closed packages, and the origin and nature of the merchandise must be conspicuously specified thereon. In every way the article to be exported must have its full history recorded.—London Times.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc., at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's

Try The MAGNOLIA CIGAR. —AT— BOYCE & TOTMAN'S.

The finest Line of Optical goods in the city at BOYCE & TOTMAN'S.

When in St. Paul stop at The Clifton, 5th street, opposite new court house.

Money to Loan. I am prepared to make loans on improved business and residence property in any amount at current rates. No delay. S. M. CASAZZA, At Stewart & Britts Bank.

In the Board of Trade Building. M. R. Baldwin and R. F. Wilcutt, real estate men, who were recently burned out in the opera house, are now settled in Room 26, Board of Trade Building.

For Rent. For rent 8 room house corner Fourth avenue east and First street. Lessee to buy the carpets, window draperies and stoves now in the house. Possession given from first to middle of January. G. G. Hartley, room 212 Duluth Union National building.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioners appointed by the Common Council of the City of Duluth, to view the premises and award damages in condemnation proceedings for the widening of Superior street from Fourteenth avenue east to northern city limits, will meet at the office of the City Clerk, A. D. 1889 in the office of the City Clerk, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the office of the City Clerk, to hear all parties interested, and from then proceed to view the premises and assess or award damages for the property to be taken.

THE CURFEW BELL.

SOMETHING ABOUT ITS ORIGIN AND USES IN OLDEN TIMES.

Tradition of Shakespeare's Birthplace—It "rang the knell of Parting Day." Tied in England to Sound an Alarm of Fire.

The revival of the curfew at Stratford-on-Avon serves to remind us that, at least, of those Old World customs which have survived down to our times is not declining. Shakespeare's day, and the age of the bell at Stratford can be ascertained to the satisfaction of even the most ardent Shakespearean skeptic. But to let that pass, the incident curiously illustrates the strange fascination which the homely practice—a practice which takes us back from these busy bustling days to the infancy of the sleeping world—still possesses for most people. We doubt whether it is even suspected how generally popular it is still kept up in this country. Curfew is, however, as a matter of fact, still religiously tolled in many hundreds of towns all villages, either all the year round, or which is still more usual—from September to April.

INTRODUCTION INTO ENGLAND. It is almost heresy to question the tradition that curfew came in with William the Conqueror. Nursery historians without number would waste sentimental over the wrongs of the conquered Saxon, and have conjured up pictures which must still be balmy to the down-trodden Celt. We all know now of the revengeful Norman priors depicted as having had the brutality to order the cowboys to be rung as a signal for the Saxons to put out their dips and go to bed.

But, although incidentally the old doublet helped to put down the Saxon cowboys, which was the reason of political conspirators, there is plenty of evidence that in William's time it was, as it had long been on the continent if not in England, primarily intended as a precaution against fire. The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

The danger of fire in those primitive times was so constant and so terrible, that the most extraordinary precautions were enjoined against it, and not without reason in the days of wooden houses, into which chimneys even were not generally introduced till about the beginning of the fourteenth century. The prevailing fear of the fire was so great, that the curfew bell was rung at the close of the day, and the people were ordered to go to bed.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and whiteness. More economical than the ordinary kind, and can be sold in competition of the multitude of low test, short weight alums or phosphate powders. Sold only in the ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. 100 Wall Street, New York.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Public Works in and for the City of Duluth, Minnesota, at their office in said city, until 8 p. m. on the 14th day of February, A. D. 1889, for the construction of a plank sidewalk on the north side of Michigan street in said city, between Garfield avenue and Seventeenth avenue west, according to the plans and specifications on file in the office of said Board.

A cash check or a bond with at least two (2) sureties in a sum of fifty ($50) dollars, payable to the order of the Board of Public Works, must be presented with each bid. The said Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MIRON BUNNELL, President, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

Official: Geo. T. Hughes, Secretary, P. H. W. Clerk of the Board of Public Works. Feb. 6-10.

YOU WANT
THE NEWS OF THE DAY, CRISP AND CONDENSED, BEFORE THE DAY
IS DEAD.

DULUTH EVENING HERALD.

VOL 6: NO. 250

DULUTH, MINN., SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1889—FOUR O'CLOCK

YOU'LL GET
ALL THE NEWS IN THE HERALD, AND
AT YOUR SUPPER TIME,
BOILED DOWN.

PRICE TWO CENTS

MORISON & MACFARLANE.

32 Exchange Building,

Have Lots and Blocks in the Grassy Point additions, in the immediate vicinity of the West End improvements, for Sale at Great Bargains; also acreage suitable for platting on the St. Louis Bay, cheap. Will be pleased to show intending purchasers over the ground and furnish all information regarding said properties. Choice Lots and Blocks in Hunter's and Macfarlane's Grassy Point additions are being rapidly taken up, and prices sure to advance. Come and make your purchases early before they are all gone. Are selling lots on building contract and no cash payment required for one year.

A. L. KINGMAN.

REAL ESTATE.

207 National Bank Bldg.

Residence Lots that lie beautifully only $125.00.
Bargain in Acres.
Bargains in Business Property.
Bargains in Improved Property.
If you want a bargain call. If you have anything to sell cheap don't fail to see me.

GLEN FALLS

Fire Insurance

COMPANY.
We are agents for the Glens Falls Fire
Ins. Co. Policies carefully written.

HARRIS BROS.

208 Duluth Nat. Bank.

Life Insurance

Is a safe investment
—insure in the Aetna
Life with
HARRIS BROS.

GENERAL AGENTS.

WALBANK & CO.,
128 WEST MICHIGAN STREET, (O'Brien & Knowlton's Bldg.)
WHOLESALE COMMISSION,
AND DEALERS IN
FLOUR, FEED, CORN, OATS, HAY, Etc.
Telephone 327.

C. H. CRAVES & CO.,

INSURANCE

Real Estate & Loans

Acres at the West End.
Acres on the Hill.
Acres in the East End.
Lots in Portland.
150 Lots in Endion.
300 Lots in London.

ESTABLISHED 1869.

W. C. SHERWOOD & CO.

REAL ESTATE, LOANS AND INSURANCE.

Have genuine bargains in Lots and Blocks in different parts of the city and acre property adjoining. All we ask for is parties to examine our list and compare them with other prices before buying; call or write. W. C. SHERWOOD & CO.

ECKERT, WILLIAMS & CO.,

WHOLESALE COMMISSION

Corn, Oats, Flour, Mill Feed, Hay, Etc.
Office and Warehouse on Lake Ave., opp. Sutphin's Cold Storage

C. B. WOODRUFF.

Wholesale and Retail

LUMBER.

Office, yards and Planting Mill 739 Gardfield Ave. (3rd Street) Rice's Point.
Complete stock of Dry Lumber, all grades.
Joist, Dimension, Boards, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding and Oak Flooring.
Long Joist 2x10, 2x12 and 2x14, 12 to 96 feet long.
Crowning by machinery a specialty.
Will deliver lumber to any part of the city.
Telephone No. 132. Mail bill of Lumber wanted or call for prices

ACRES! ACRES!

Now is the time to buy. No firm at Duluth has a better or larger list than we have.
Kimberley & Stryker's Addition—A few Half Blocks left from first build.
Clinton Place—One half block at bargain; easy terms. Lots in both these handsome additions cheap.
Money to Loan.
Kimberley, Stryker & Manley,
5 & 6 DULUTH NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

Murnane & Spencer,

SPORTING HEADQUARTERS.

22 WEST SUPERIOR STREET.

CHOICE WINES, LIQUORS AND CIGARS.

All sporting news received here. All sporting papers on file.

DESERVES SHORT SHRIFT.

A Tramp Out West Who Tried to Burn Two Women to Death.

People After Him and Ready to Use Lynch Law on the Fellow.

CLEVELAND, W. Feb. 9.—A tramp called at the residence of Sam Brown, butcher, late last evening. He was refused assistance and knowing Brown was absent he insulted his daughter, Mrs. Brown left the house quickly by another door and loosened Brown's two vicious bull dogs they made at the tramp but the man was full of fight and succeeded in killing both the animals with a club. During the melee the wife and daughter had locked and barred doors. The tramp, unsuccessful in his attempt to enter the house, set fire to it and an adjoining residence. Brown himself appeared at the kitchen and armed himself with a knife and the tramp who had fled, with a party of neighbors. The tramp will undoubtedly be lynched when caught.

A BACK NUMBER.

A Great Gathering in New York to Celebrate Samuel Tilden's Anniversary—Logan's Birthday.
New York, Feb. 9.—There will be a great gathering of public men at Tilden's hotel in Jersey city this evening in celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of the late Samuel J. Tilden. Among those that arrived this morning to participate in the banquet are United States Senator McPherson, Governor Green, Governor Leon Abbott and Congressman Bourke Cockran. Mayor Grant, Daniel Dougherty, and Congressman McClellan will come over this afternoon.

OVER IN HARLEM.

New York, Feb. 9.—The Democratic League of Harlem is celebrating the Tilden birthday with all day reception. At the banquet tonight the principal speakers will be Henry Waterson, Ex-Governor of New York, Roger A. Fryer and Col. Feltow.

LOGAN'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Had the late General Logan lived until today he would have been sixty-three years old. To celebrate the event the Douglas club of this city will give a reception this afternoon to leading Republicans and Democrats in the number of one thousand. It will be followed by an oration on the life and services of the deceased by Senator George E. Bacon, of Paris.

MUST RECOGNIZE THE SOIL.

Salvagees in Detroit Forbidden to Carry the American Flag Across the River.
Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9.—The members of the Salvation Army are considerably upset over the order of the city of Detroit, Mich., forbidding them to carry the American flag across the river. The order was issued by the city of Detroit, Mich., forbidding them to carry the American flag across the river. The order was issued by the city of Detroit, Mich., forbidding them to carry the American flag across the river.

THE BRIDGE IN DANGER.

FEARS THAT THE BIG NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD BRIDGE ACROSS THE ST. LOUIS RIVER IS IN DANGER.
The bridge is being cut away near the Northern Pacific railroad drawbridge piers and around the piling at the curve of the structure near the Rice's Point shore. The weight of ice is so great, and the action of the current so strong, when the wind is not blowing from the southwest that the stone work and piling is kept in an appreciable degree, making the bridge in a measure unsafe. A great mass of ice has been upland, and cracking, has left a deep ridge of ice that teams can not cross from Rice's Point to Superior. The railroad men are doing all in their power to prevent damage to the big structure and will keep a careful watch so that no accident may happen to the great bridge.

LABOR IN CANADA.

The Dominion to Have a Labor Commission and Restrict Child Labor.
OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 9.—The report of the Parliamentary Labor Commission was completed today and placed in the printer's hands. It recommends the establishment of a Bureau of Labor at Ottawa, not only to gather statistical information, but to settle disputes between capital and labor. It urges the immediate restriction of child labor in factories and the enactment of a compulsory education law for each child. It also asks Parliament to sanction the establishment of a working men's insurance association on the same basis as the German system.

A SENSIBLE MOVE.

The Chicago Board of Education Puts American Flags in All School Rooms.
CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—As a result of the comment recently carried over the refusal of the Chicago board of education to accept the offer of the Patriotic Sons of America to place American flags in the public schools, the body has decided to carry out the suggestion at its own expense, and this morning the necessary number of the "Stars and Stripes" were purchased by a committee comprising Messrs. Doolittle, Fernald and McLaren.

Has Got Home.

New York, Feb. 9.—The German Lloyd steamer Luthi with Minister Plehwa and wife and Nellie Garfield and husband on board arrived at quarantine this morning.

For The Houseless.

New York, Feb. 9.—Elevated railroad officials says that the bondsmen of A. S. Gookin, their defaulting clerk, have made good the four thousand dollars of shortage in his accounts, and that there is no need to worry. Gookin is at his home in New York.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc.,

at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's

HAS FIFER NERVE.

If the Governor of Illinois Has Sense He Will Not Heed the Petition for Nebe's Pardon.
CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—A movement is on foot to secure the pardon of Oscar Nebe, one of the anarchists tried for the Haymarket massacre, and who was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment. His brother has for more than a year been urging the Prisoners' Aid and Support association, and other organizations friendly to the anarchists, to take some steps on his behalf but for some reason these societies could not be induced to move except for Flinder, Schwab and Nebe's request. Finally the friends of Nebe determined to press his case on its individual merits, and a petition to Governor Filer is now being circulated.

PRETTY GIRL IN LIMBO.

An Eighteen-year-old Girl Arrested for Passing Counterfeit Money in Kansas.
HUNTSVILLE, Kan., Feb. 9.—A pretty, eighteen-year-old girl who gives her name as Cora Wilson, has just been arrested here for passing counterfeit money. She claims to have recently come from Salina, but the crime for which she is awaiting a final hearing was committed in Lawrence, Kan. The girl admits that her name is not Wilson, and says she is the daughter of a Presbyterian minister in an Ohio village, but refuses to give her father's name. She refuses to talk concerning her crime.

STORMS IN BRITAIN.

The Great Gale and Snow Storm Continues in England and Scotland—Numerous Wrecks.
LONDON, Feb. 9.—The tremendous gale in England and Scotland still continues, and the storm, and a number of houses have been blown down. In Scotland a very heavy snow storm prevails, and the Scottish railways are blocked. Along the coast there have been numerous wrecks, among them a barque has been lost off Grimsby and all hands drowned.

A BAD WATER.

A Hotel Water in Montreal Cuts Off a Man's Head. He Makes no Statement.
MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—This morning a waiter at the Balmoral hotel cut a man's head off with an axe on Jagers' street. The man was killed instantly and will see no one yet. The waiter has been placed in a cage and will be tried for murder.

He Knows Where's For.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 9.—This afternoon the family bible, which has been purchased by subscriptions by Tippecanoe veterans, will be presented to General Harrison. It contains a large number of signatures, perhaps the most interesting being that of James Hubbard, 104 years of age, who was a member of the army of 1812 as a scout under General Harrison. The bible is a very handsome affair.

Can't Lose a Good Thing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The resignation of Supreme Court Justice Hamilton as editor of the journal of the American Medical Association, which he accepted several months ago, went into effect today and the once more change his residence from Chicago to this city. His change of base is due to the fact that congress has increased the salary of the office by five per cent and also made it a life position. The advantage has been unable to withstand.

More of LeCaron's Testimony.

Boston, Feb. 9.—LeCaron's statement before the parnell commission connecting John Boyle with the Boston Police and the Boston Police with the Boston Police, was given today. The statement was given in a very interesting manner and was full of details. The statement was given in a very interesting manner and was full of details.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Indications for twenty-four hours: For Minnesota and Dakota, fair, warmer, southerly winds.

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, SILVERWARE, ETC.,

at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's

THE ZENITH CITY HOLDS HER OWN.

I will meet any competitor in the Zenith City. I will meet any competitor in the Zenith City. I will meet any competitor in the Zenith City. I will meet any competitor in the Zenith City. I will meet any competitor in the Zenith City.

ANDREW JAWOR.

Loans, Loans, Loans.
We have money to loan in any amount to suit borrowers at a reasonable rate of interest. Mendenhall & Hoopes.

With a Pencil Dipped in Gall.

Marquette Journal: We notice that the fish hatchery at Duluth has just turned out its first batch of little fish. They are full of life and western ambition, but it will be some time yet before they are large enough to be put in the lake. If they have caught the Duluthian spirit they will be the due to pay when they are turned out in the lake, for they will be certain to undertake eating up all the other fish so that they have the big pond entirely to themselves.

Bids Wanted.

Bids will be received at the office of the undersigned until February 9th, 1889, at noon, for the purchase of the Hay View hotel building, at the corner of Superior street and Fourth avenue west. The building to be removed by the 1st of March, 1889. HARRIS BROS.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

If you want to get money on your real estate go to Mendenhall & Hoopes.

A BRACE OF BURGLARIES.

Crackmen go Through Clark & Matter's and Booth & Co's Safes Last Night.

They do Not Jobs at Both Places and Leave no Apparent Clues.

The bold crackmen, who have confined their tactics to work to last Superior for the last month, have at last commenced operations in Duluth, making their debut last evening by opening Clark & Matter's safe, getting $75, and securing $250 at A. Booth & Sons. They are professionals, and left no clue behind them. The same parties are probably responsible for both burglaries. A Coventry, manager of the A. Booth Packing Co's business here, also opened the company's office at 434 Lake avenue south. He retired early and was awakened about midnight by a slight popping sound coming from the office. Thinking it was nothing more than gas expanding in the stove, he soon fell asleep again, only becoming aware in the morning that the "popping noise" he heard, had been caused by dynamite in the morning that the opening the result of the robbery this morning the manager began a search for the watch dog, which he thought might be getting the money for the burglars. The animal was found in a coal box, where the thieves had placed him after dragging him into insensibility. The men had entered the building by trying open a south window overlooking an alley. Boxes of merchandise, that were placed on the shelves, were thrown into the alley. After making way with the dog, the burglars found the safe open, and three coats, a number of socks and long buffalo robe and several blankets they used to wrap the iron box in, so that the noise of the explosion could hardly be heard. The explosion blew the safe door open, leaving the heavy steel pipe from the fastening rivets, bending it as though it had been made of tin. Short work was made in getting the money for the burglars. The men were seen to enter the building after Mr. Coventry awoke, and they were seen to enter the building after Mr. Coventry awoke, and they were seen to enter the building after Mr. Coventry awoke.

ROSS ROPE.

By the Sheriff of Mead County, Ky., for the Murder of Benedict Rhodes.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 8.—James Ross, colored, was hanged at Brandenburg, Mead county, this morning at 7:20. He was very cool, and when asked if he had anything to say he replied firmly, "Not one word, sir." The rope was cut and the drop fell, and in twenty-one minutes life was extinct and the body cut down and turned over to James H. Rollins, a medical student, to whom Ross had bequeathed it. Ross was hung for the murder of Benedict Rhodes in April last.

STILL ON THE STAND.

Informers LeCaron's Cross Examination Before the Parnell Commission Listened to by Great Crowds.
LONDON, Feb. 8.—The cross examination of LeCaron before the Parnell commission was continued by Sir Charles Russell before the Parnell commission today. The court room was overcrowded. Mr. Parnell was not present.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Indications for Minnesota and Dakota, fair, warmer, southerly winds.

SHUT IT.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 8.—There was one ballot taken in joint assembly for United States Senator and resulted: Golf 39, Kenna 38, Carr 7, four scattering. Necessary to choice 42.

Submitted to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The fortification and naval appropriation bills were submitted to the full Senate committee on appropriations today by the subcommittee, who were charged with their examination.

A LUCKY LOT.

If Had Been Water Gas They'd Have All Been Dead Long Before.
New York, Feb. 8.—At half-past six o'clock this morning the discovery was made that the residents of the four story tenement house, No. 241 East Seventy-fifth street, had all run a terrible risk of being all suffocated in their beds during a break in the gas pipe in the cellar. When a woman made the discovery she hastened at once to arouse the inmates. James Rogan and his wife and Alice O'Neill, all living on the top floor, were found unconscious, as also Mary May and Anthony May, who occupied rooms on the first floor. Mary Rogan and Alice O'Neill were taken to the Freshwater hospital in a critical condition, but all the others have recovered.

IN A NEW ROLE.

Booth & Barrett Organize a Company to Perfect Patents in Ammunition and Explosives.
New York, Feb. 8.—Amid the multiplicity of his professional duties and the social demands to which he is constantly subject Edwin Booth still finds time to look after profitable investments for his fortune. It transpired today that together with Lawrence Barrett he has organized a company at Holyoke, Mass., for the purpose of dealing in improvements and inventions in ammunition, explosives, etc. The company has a capital of five million dollars the two tragedians being the principal stockholders, while Arthur B. Chase, their manager, is president of the concern.

One of Gould's Friends.

New York, Feb. 8.—The Times says that Anna Lawrence Hopkins has quit the service of Jay Gould. For years he has been one of Mr. Gould's closest business associates; he has been entrusted with many of his most important duties; he has represented Mr. Gould in a multitude of big corporations and in Wall street circles he has been recognized as practically Mr. Gould's other self since Washington E. Connor and Giovanni Morosini parted company with the Wizard. Mr. Hopkins has seemed to be closer than any body else to him, as only two persons, those two being Russ Sage and Mr. Gould's son George.

In The Board of Trade Building.

M. R. Baldwin and R. F. Wilcutt, real estate men, who were recently turned out in the opera house, are now settled in Room 25, Board of Trade Building.

From Yesterday's Last Edition.

SENATORIAL NEWS.
The Latest From the Seat of National Government—The Fiscal Territorial Wrangle Taken Place—Election Investigation Resolutions Discussed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—A full caucus of Republican senators was held this morning at which was discussed the election investigation resolutions and admission of territories. As to the former, it was decided that the committee on privileges and elections should examine into several propositions now pending, and determine which of them, if any, shall be adopted. Upon the territorial question it was decided to suspend the national conference in their discussion of the omnibus bill, which proposes to admit the two Dakotas, Montana and New Mexico.

TOWERICE.

A Special to the Herald That Calls Attention to Tower's Magnificent Ice Crop Duluth.
Special to EVENING HERALD.
TOWER, Minn., Feb. 8.—The Business Men's association at the regular meeting to-night appointed a committee to call attention to the magnificent ice on Vermilion lake—from twenty-eight to thirty inches thick—clear as crystal, and pure as nature ever forms it. This committee is also instructed to confer with the officials of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad and ask their co-operation, as far as rates are concerned, in bringing about a traffic that will give Duluth and points south the finest ice in the country and tower an industry that will employ all our laborers.

START A HOTEL.

And He Ought to Have Good Business Among His Own Disreputable Class.
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 8.—A friend of John E. Sullivan, the absconding county clerk, received a letter today from that individual, dated Montreal, wherein he tells of his safe arrival in Canada, and remarks that he is now enjoying himself. He also says he intends to start a hotel in Canada and become a loyal subject of the queen. He states that he has seen Moore, the absconding insurance agent.

IRISHMEN STIRRED.

By the Undoubtedly Perjured Testimony Given in the Parnell Trial.
MILWAUKEE, Feb. 8.—Milwaukee Irishmen are greatly stirred up over the statements made by Major Beach before the Parnell commission regarding the alleged meeting with Frederick Sullivan, of the National League, in May 1888. J. G. Donnelly, resident in probate of the county, who is estate executive of the league, was asked what was thought of the Beach disclosure. "I think," said Mr. Donnelly, "that if the rest of his testimony be as reliable as that wherein he mentions Milwaukee, still, it is a very serious injury before he finishes his tale. My conversation with Alexander Sullivan at Milwaukee on the occasion of the Parnell Sullivan meeting in 1888 is absolutely false, and many besides myself can prove it false."

HEROISM IN SPAIN.

A Terrible Hot Case in a Spanish Hospital Arrested by the Bravery of On-cla.
MADRID, Spain, Feb. 8.—A serious fire occurred during last night in the military hospital of this city. There were 430 people in the building and they became panic stricken. Many of them were unable to help themselves in any way, but the nurses and doctors bravely and successfully devoted themselves to the task of removing them from the burning structure. The governor of Madrid himself hurried to the scene and carried several men who were suffering from contagious diseases to neighboring barracks. One wing of the hospital was totally destroyed. No deaths resulted from the fire.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc.,

at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's

DO OUR PEOPLE KNOW?

Salary of The County Attorney Increased, and an Assistant Given Him.

Do The People of St. Louis County Realize These Increased Salaries?

ST. PAUL, Feb. 8.—[Special.]—In the senate, senator Bowen introduced a bill to provide for the payment of damages by railroads running through the streets. It went to the judiciary committee. The next bill came from Senator Whitman, and it was passed under a suspension of the rules. The bill increases the salary of the county attorney of St. Louis county to $1800 per annum and provides for the appointment of an assistant at $1700 per annum. A bill from Senator Child was also passed, providing for a change in school districts in McLeod county. Senator Howard introduced a bill appropriating $400 for the purchase of a burial lot and the erection of monuments over the graves of the citizens who were massacred by Sioux Indians in Swift county in 1862; it was referred to the committee on appropriations. The bill providing for the publication of the legislative manual, with the recommendation that the bill pass. Mr. Hunt spoke in favor of the bill as originally drafted, which calls for an expenditure of $1,000, and gives each member ten copies. He disapproved of the amendment that the clerk of the senate should be authorized to direct, if at all, Mr. Hunt then fired off a few pleasantries at Mr. Benson, after which the bill passed.

Gov. Merriam this morning made the following appointments on his staff. Brigadier General John H. Mullen; Adjutant General, Brigadier General J. L. Schaeffer; Inspector general, Brigadier General J. P. Wilson; quartermaster general, Brigadier General D. W. Hunt; surgeon general, Brigadier General C. E. Lindberg; commissary general, Brigadier General E. W. Holtz; general advocate general, Lieutenant Colonel Lieutenant Colonel L. A. Paige; assistant quartermaster general, Lieutenant Colonel G. A. Whitney; assistant inspector general, Lieutenant Colonel A. C. Wedge; assistant surgeon general, ex-Colonel James S. B. Palmer; captain Jos. Kestlein, Captain Chas. F. Tryon.

HERE WE ARE.

HARRY HARRINGTON.

The Merchant Tailor who was recently burned out in the Opera House Block can now be found at the Ohio Coal company office. He is showing an elegant new line of samples. You can save from $10 to $15 on a suit and be suited. 203 West Superior street.

W. F. Parsons

BUSINESS COLLEGE
AND SHORTHAND INSTITUTE.
Open day and evening,
in Parsons new block on Superior street.

West Duluth

Land Co.'s Lots.

Acres East, Acres West.

in all Divisions of Duluth

Property! Bargains! Bargains!

Look at My List.

E. W. MARKELL,

Office, Ground Floor, new Spalding House.

EVENING HERALD.

The DULUTH EVENING HERALD is issued from its office in the Bunnell block every afternoon, first edition at 4 o'clock. Last edition at 6 o'clock. The EVENING HERALD will be delivered to any part of the city or mailed to any address for fifty cents per month.

The best advertising medium in Northern Minnesota. Special attention given to securing results for those who use its columns.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DULUTH.

LOCAL BOARD OF INSPECTION.

Under the present grain inspection law if any interested party is not satisfied with the result of the reinspection of a car of grain, he can take an appeal to the chief inspector at St. Paul, and if still dissatisfied his last recourse is an appeal to the state grain and warehouse commission at St. Paul. This always involves delay, more especially if the members of the commission are absent, as is frequently the case, during which time demurrage charges pile up against the car, business is delayed and customers often pay to great inconvenience. And as the state board of commissioners know absolutely nothing about wheat, the method is not a valuable one. After much consultation and consideration, the grain men of both Duluth and Minneapolis have decided in favor of local boards of appeal in each city, to be composed of three members each, representing, respectively, the elevator, miller and commission interests, to whom appeals may be taken from the decisions of the chief deputies, and in case the decision of any one of these boards is not satisfactory to either party interested, the case can take the same course as is now provided by the law. The sole object of this proposed change in the law is to facilitate the transaction of business, and there is no reason why it should not be made. If some member of the legislature will secure an amendment of this nature to the grain law he will earn and receive the hearty thanks of the grain dealing bodies of both Duluth and Minneapolis.

For the sake of his family, it is to be hoped that Bensch, Parrell's successor, carries a satisfactory life insurance.

Probate Judge Delaney Wood, editor of the Two Harbors Iron Post, denies that he has been offered the portfolio of state.

Late Consul General Sewall of Samoa now realizes, probably, that it is not always safe to tell the truth about higher officials.

This business of safe blowing and robbery is getting monotonous. One night Superior is attacked, another Duluth. The police should rid the town of all suspicious characters.

There seems to be an irrepressible desire on the part of a good many people in St. Paul and elsewhere to tinker with the working license law. So long as it is working satisfactorily why not let it alone?

The Pennsylvania Legislature has passed a bill requiring that the United States be placed on every public school building in the State. The idea is not a bad one, and might be profitably adopted by other States where there are considerably foreign element. Let us inculcate patriotism by every means in our power, if necessary let us be known. Nothing keeps America for our descendants.

In less than a month will close the life of the 50th Congress and the administration of President Cleveland. As the 4th of March approaches there is a trace of new life perceptible in every branch of business in confident expectation of a new and wonderfully prosperous era. In the time that remains there is ample time to accomplish much in the way of remedial legislation, but not much hope. The house majority represents the expiring regime of stupid conservatism and spiritless inertia.

The evidence is conclusive that Col. Greene, president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, was notified in April, 1927, that Moore, the Indianapolis loan agent, was doing crooked business. It is thought parties in the home office were in collusion with him in his peculations. Policy holders at Indianapolis are moving to demand an investigation. There must have been some stupendous blunder when an agent could steal $600,000 in transactions covering a series of years.

Since the force of heredity is so largely material, it is beginning to be understood that the permanency of civilization depends on well educated mothers. It is therefore not surprising that colleges for women are multiplying. But it is a surprise that in addition to the colleges and annexes to the universities, colleges of art and industries are being established. Cambridge, England, has opened a college of carpentry for the female sex. The object is quite similar to that of our schools for manual training, the teaching of dexterity rather than a trade.

To a communication in regard to county salaries published elsewhere, the HERALD can not entirely agree. It is not true that the county commissioners have taken snap judgment regarding this increase or have been at all secret in their moves, though it would undoubtedly have been better had they come more publicly before the people with their requests. In open session they discussed the question of salary, in the chamber of commerce they brought it up, and it is perhaps the people's fault if they are now surprised at the bills introduced. The salaries asked are not exorbitant, $3,000 for a treasurer who handles over half a million a year, $3,500 for an auditor of the largest county in the state, $1,500 for its attorney, a slight increase in the probate judgeship and in the salaries of commissioners may be well warranted but nothing that has a suspicion of embezzlement or a small jobbery should be allowed. If the people do not want their servants well paid, or if they do not like the methods pursued by the commissioners the remedy is in their hands, the bills are not passed and a protest would doubtless defeat them.

A CHANCE FOR DULUTH.

A GOOD PLACE FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE WORKS CONTEMPLATED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

In the United States senate Thursday, Senator Daniels introduced as an amendment to the naval appropriation bill, a measure authorizing the president to select and report upon the five best obtainable sites in the United States for the fabrication of guns and armor plate and other material of iron and steel for the use of the navy. One of these sites is to be located in the middle or eastern states, one in Virginia, one on the gulf coast, one on the great lakes and one on the Pacific coast. If the amendment becomes a part of the bill, and it probably will, there is no reason why Duluth should not be selected as the place on the lakes. With the iron industry rapidly growing up here, which to furnish at least cost all the steel required for such foundries as the above mentioned amendment proposes, we are proximately to the same, and a strategic point of the first importance, Duluth certainly deserves consideration.

WITH THE CHURCHES.

Rev. C. A. Poole will preach tomorrow at his old church—St. Paul's—morning and evening. Sabbath school will be held as usual.

The main audience room of the Congregational church will be used for the first time Sunday. Beginning tomorrow evening, Rev. Noyes will preach a series of sermons on "The Alphabet of the Christian Faith." The subject of the first discourse will be "The penitence from Dead Works, or the Failure of Mere Morality."

Rev. Dr. Ringland preaches at the First Presbyterian church tonight on "The Signs of an Inquiring God." In the evening his topic will be "Three Views of Obedience."

Edison Baptist church, Second street and Eleventh avenue east. Usual services tomorrow. Preaching by Rev. Dr. Ringland, morning and evening, also baptism in the evening. Beginning Monday evening, the church will hold special revival services every evening except Saturday. The pastor has secured Rev. A. Watson, of Minneapolis, to aid in the services. Mr. Watson has had experience in this kind of work and has given good satisfaction wherever he has labored. All are invited.

At the Bethel, Rev. C. S. Satter pastor, the Lead Hand society meets 10:30 a. m. on Sunday. Sunday school 3 p. m. Stereoscopic lecture, 7:30 p. m., the subject being "Dances, Seas of Galilee and Nazareth." Songs will be held this evening, at 7:30 p. m. Boys' Brigade Monday 7 p. m.

The Rev. Charles L. Wells of Fairbairn, will occupy St. Paul's pulpit after tomorrow till Mr. Barker arrives.

The Rev. W. M. Barker, pastor of St. Paul's church, will take charge March 1st. Mr. Barker's family, consisting of his mother and sister, will come with him and occupy the rectory at once.

DOESN'T BELIEVE IN IT.

A CORRESPONDENT WHO DOES NOT BELIEVE IN RABBIT COUNTY SALARIES.

To the Editor: Your correspondent does not believe in false economy, in the payment of inadequate salaries for important offices—neither do I believe in any judgment and evident efforts to fatten the few at the expense and without the knowledge of the many. It may be that all of St. Louis county's officials, whose salaries have lately been raised by legislative enactment, deserve the increase, no doubt they do, but the people—all the people—not want to be made to pay these increased wages without a voice in their increase. But few of our people have any knowledge of the details of these changes until reading of them in the telegraph columns of this paper. A member of the board of county commissioners appeared before the chamber of commerce a few days ago in behalf of an increase for himself and other county officials, and was promptly snubbed by the chamber. That body evidently does not believe in increasing salaries at present. There are many other purposes just now for which the county's money can be better spent.

TAXPAYER.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own.

I will meet any competition in my line of business, whether it be in Duluth, St. Paul, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler.

Excursion Tickets South.

"The North Western Line"—Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad—will sell tickets to many of the principal points in the south at greatly reduced rates on following dates:

December 15th, January 15th and 20th, February 15th, March 15th, April 15th, May 15th and 20th, June 15th, July 15th, August 15th, September 15th, October 15th, November 15th, and December 15th. Tickets will be good to return within 60 days from date of sale, and privilege of stop over at any point en route. Call at city or depot office of "The North Western Line."

Geo. M. Smith, General Agent.

The Chamber of Torture.

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. It is the crisis of pain is reached, that the preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Sitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervine, anodyne and sedatives, while having none but a specific effect, are yet very deleterious to the system. They produce no lasting effect on rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Sitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, is next to impossible to relieve or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its power to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should, therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, malaria and nervousness are relieved by it.

FOR RENT.

Office now occupied by M. B. Harrison, 513 West Superior street. Prominent location.

Chas. T. Abbott, real estate office West Duluth.

Laborers desiring to build homes can get money on small payments in any amount. Call at once and see us.

T. W. Smith, Sec., Metropolitan Bank.

Money to Loan.

Parties who contemplate building business blocks and desire large loans can be readily accommodated by

S. M. CHANDLER, At Stewart & Britt's Bank

Lumber Lumber!

Our office temporarily will be at No. 12 Second avenue west.

DUNCAN, BREWEN & Co.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

Money to Loan

On furniture, horses, wagons and any chattel security in amounts to suit borrower.

A. C. JAMISON, room 5 Miles office.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

For want to borrow money on your "real estate" call on S. M. CHANDLER, At Stewart & Britt's Bank.

West Duluth property.

Chas. T. Abbott.

THE MODERN CHILD.

YOUNG AMERICA CRITICISED FOR HIS PRECONCIOUSNESS.

Too Knowing for Anything and Too Wise for His Parents—This World and Its Changes Are Treasures for the Twentieth Century.

If in the former days of New England children were repressed and kept in the back ground, surely today that objection cannot be brought forward. On the other hand, our children, east and west, are nowadays encouraged to "express their minds," their opinions are listened to, and often their advice asked, as if their experience were fully equal to that of their elders. The mother is encouraged to "express their minds," their opinions are listened to, and often their advice asked, as if their experience were fully equal to that of their elders. The mother is encouraged to "express their minds," their opinions are listened to, and often their advice asked, as if their experience were fully equal to that of their elders.

The juvenile book critic.

The little boy of about eight years is reading. You ask him if he is fond of stories, and remembering your own and brothers' delight in certain famous books, mention them. "Oh, they're rather nice," he says, "but I don't like them."

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read. He says, "I don't like them," but he does like to read.

J. B. SUTPHIN

COLD STORAGE

Wholesale dressed meats, Poultry and Provisions, Stock yards and abattoir at West Duluth. Dealer in draft and driving horses.

DEAD ANIMALS

Promptly Removed on Short Notice.

THOMAS HALFORD, Telephone 127.

CULLUM, Painless Dentist

Room 1-7, 408 West Superior street, Ferguson Block.

A. FITGER & CO.'S

LAKE SUPERIOR BREWERY

Is the largest in the State of Minnesota outside of the Twin Cities.

If you want to save and be economical, get your old clothing.

Dyed, Cleaned and Repaired.

Our work is equal to any done in the Northwest. We have every facility. Your garments will look like new.

We are also exclusive agents for the "New Home"

Sewing machine and kept in connection a full line of attachments for all machines. Repairing machines is a special feature of our business.

F. H. BLAKE, Successor to Kelly Bros. 530 W. Superior street.

J. KARLINSKY, MERCHANT TAILOR.

Cleaning and Repairing done Neatly and Promptly.

201 West Superior St., Duluth, Minn.

J.D. & R.C. RAY, Real Estate.

Duluth National Bank Building.

Health is Wealth

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration, caused by use of alcohol or tobacco, Waterfalls, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain resulting in insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involutionary Losses and Seminal Emission, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. Each box contains one month's treatment, $10.00 a box, or six boxes for $50.00, sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price.

WE GUARANTEE SIX BOXES

To cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with $5.00, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantee is issued only by Boyce & Tottman, Opera House Drug Store, Duluth, Minn.

STONE & ORDEAN

Wholesale Grocers

DULUTH, MINN.

The Evening Herald Bindery.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR SKIN DISEASES

DR. KROJANKER, Practical Furrier.

Seal garments made to order a specialty. Old garments altered and refitted. Also all kinds of furs repaired.

209 East Superior Street.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND.

Original, best, only genuine. Sold everywhere. Ask for Chichester's English Pennyroyal Pills. Red Cross Diamond Brand. In each box a full description of the disease it cures. At Druggists, Apothecaries and Dealers.

Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Phila., Pa.

J. B. SUTPHIN

COLD STORAGE

Wholesale dressed meats, Poultry and Provisions, Stock yards and abattoir at West Duluth. Dealer in draft and driving horses.

DEAD ANIMALS

THE DAY IN THE CITY.

Safe blowers are getting in their work with even impartiality.

Real estate transfers yesterday were 18, total valuation $25,035.

The chamber of commerce is located today in the Banning block.

The St. Paul's choir rehearsal will be held at Mr. Robinson's studio instead of the church.

The Kitchell Gammel club, of Duluth has just filed amendments to its articles of incorporation.

Cian McEae, the new Superior clan of Scottish Clans, was organized last night at that place by Duluth members of the order.

Minimum temperature this morning was 9° above zero with a northeast wind. The day has been fair and comparatively warm.

There is an increase of 65,000 bushels of wheat in Duluth elevators this week making a total in store of about 1,500,000 bushels.

Mrs. Jeannette Miller is coming to St. Paul to lecture on "Dress."

The movement to have Duluth being here to Duluth seems to have failed utterly.

W. C. Johnson has gone out of business as a real estate and mining stock broker and will be associated with the Duluth Book & Paper Co.

At the East First street rock cut work is nearly completed and the full depth and width of this largest of Duluth's rock cuttings is about made.

The roof of the Park Point ferry house was burned off last night, the fire starting from a spark from the tip of a stove. The damage was about $25.

Bank clearings for the past week have been $2,315,164.27, a large amount for this season of the year and almost double the total of the corresponding week in 1888.

Senator Sablin has introduced a bill authorizing the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern Railway company to construct a bridge over the Mississippi river at or near Red Wing, and to establish it as a post road.

The Duluth Life society was brought up yesterday afternoon by a motion made before Judge Martin denouncing to the complaint made by the company. It is trying to collect back assessments of delinquent policy holders.

Port Arthur is making arrangements for the erection of a 500 barrel flour mill at that point, to cost $75,000. Duluth's flour mill people are busy increasing their paid in capital stock to $300,000 and are meeting with good success.

The Duluth and Winnipeg railroad officials will have a further hearing before the railroad commissioners at St. Paul in regard to the matter of enlarging their capital stock. The railroad commissioners insist on having some evidence to sustain the statements lately made by the attorneys of the road.

There is a general complaint among Duluth citizens at the methods pursued by the insurance companies as to their paying of losses and there is talk of the formation of a local mutual company that will do the entire insurance business of the city. The companies are showing in all their dealings with this city a playful policy that is as annoying as it is small.

John Clark, the champion light weight, will be at the Peoples theatre next week. He has fought an eight round draw with Gilmore and licked Arthur Chambers, the ex champion light weight. He has offered $50 to any light weight who will return him in four rounds. Jimmy Griffin has accepted the offer, and odds are being given that Clark will have to be treated to a hold his own, to say nothing of any knock-out. The scrap takes place next Friday evening.

Manager Coventry, of The Booth Co., was sympathizing with D. W. Mills, whose market was robbed last Wednesday night. Mr. Mills will probably now receive the compliment and give Mr. Coventry his condolences. Mr. Mills also gave his unalloyed sympathy to a townsmen of his at West Superior, whose safe was robbed recently, advising him at the same time to buy a burglar safe, such as he himself had. And that night Mr. Mills' burglar proof safe was robbed of its contents.

About 8 o'clock last evening an alarm of fire from box 35 called the department to Third avenue east between Fourth and Fifth streets where a bare belonging to Robert Osborn was afire. Being above the water hydrant line but little could be done except by the chemist. The building was finally destroyed. Its value was small and insurance nothing. It is worth about $1,000 worth of lumbermen's camp supplies insured for $600 in the New York Bowers by McGregor & Bowers.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own. I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler.

Borrowers wanted for $10,000, in sums to suit borrower. We loan on real estate in any part of the city. Apply at once.

F. W. SMITH, Sec., Metropolitan Bank.

Money to loan in amount to suit upon improved business property.

S. M. CHAMBERLAIN, At Stewart & Betts Bank.

Don't risk it any longer. Insure with Myers & Whipple.

We have several bargains in desirable lots. Call at Wm. C. Sargent & Co's room 8 Metropolitan block.

PERMANENTLY LOCATED. IN THE SPALDING HOUSE BUILDING.

The West Duluth Land company has secured the room just east of the entrance in the Spalding house. The location is good and in the future this company can be found at the above location.

The soft glow of the tea roses is acquired by ladies who use Poxson's Complexion Powder. Try it.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office is corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

Banking in England and America. There is a great deal of difference between the banking rules of this country and England, and in some particulars we might copy after that country. On the whole, however, I believe ours are the best. In England, for instance, a person finding a check payable to order can endorse it in the name of the person to whom it is payable, and without identification receive payment. The bank has really no responsibility. There is, of course, a penalty for forgery, but that is all. Our rule in this branch of the business is much the best. One of the most curious features of the English rule is the method of the Bank of England in issuing nothing but new notes. You may receive a lot of new notes at one window, go to another window to transact some business which will require one of your bills, and hand it in, but it never comes out again. The teller puts it on a book, where it remains until the close of business, when it is taken out and put with others to be destroyed. I do not know the reason for this exactly, but the fact remains that the bank never issues the same note twice. In receiving a light coin, the English cut it in half and issue a new one. This is one instance in which we should follow them.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc., at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's.

Try The MAGNOLIA CIGAR.

—AT— BOYCE & TOTMAN'S.

127 Tenth Avenue East.

HE KILLED THIRTY MEN.

BLOODY RECORD OF CAPT. JOHN MILLER, THE OLD FRONTIERSMAN.

Arrested a Number of Times, but Always Released—Saw Death to Horse Thieves. Took Part in Two Wars—Notches on His Gun.

Capt. John Miller, who was killed near Jintown, T. T. by one of his tenants named Jim Ables, had a remarkable criminal record, having killed thirty men at different places and under different circumstances. His death was the result of a dispute with Ables concerning the disposition of some cotton which the latter claimed had been stolen.

Miller made a suspicious movement, as if to draw a revolver, when Ables shot him dead.

Capt. Miller was born in Choctaw county, Miss., in 1834 and was 52 years of age, yet no one would have taken him for more than 50. Few men have led a more adventurous life than he. According to his own statement the first man he ever killed was named Jones, and the killing took place at Columbus, Miss.

He was tried for the crime and came clear. This was when he was quite young.

In 1848, at New Orleans, Miller and the two Mailey brothers, Henry and John, killed the three Turk brothers. Miller was a member of Jenkins' company in the filibustering expedition to Cuba when Lopez was garroted.

Capt. John J. Crittenden and fifty-two men were killed before Gen. Sherman's army. The difficulty with the Turk brothers occurred just after his return from Cuba. He was tried at New Orleans for the Turk killing, and again came clear.

In 1849, in a difficulty near Shreveport, La., he killed three men—Murphy, Myrick and one Carroll. He was tried at Shreveport, and acquitted on the ground of self defense. He cut the next two notches on his gun at Chapin, La., in 1850, when he and Alex Rude followed two horse thieves from Texas, and Miller killed them both in a fight they made while resisting arrest.

In 1857 he killed a man named Taylor at Gatesville, Tex., with a knife. Taylor struck him in the head with a rock. He was also tried for this murder and came clear.

TWELVE IN A BUNCH. In 1860, while en route from Chickasaw nation to Mexico, he, with six companions, was captured near Spivey's ferry on Red river, when a general row took place not far from his camp between five white men and a crowd of colored men. Miller and his men appeared on the scene after the five whites were wounded, and opened fire on the colored men, killing twelve of them. For this he was tried before Gen. Reynolds at Austin, Tex., and released.

In 1871 he pursued three horse thieves from the Indian territory into Texas, and all three of them were killed. For this he stood trial at Cranberry and was turned loose.

In 1870 he killed, or was charged with killing, Matthew Fletcher on his (Miller's) own farm, near Jintown. For this he was arrested and lodged in the United States jail at this place, where he remained eight months and in 1880 was tried and acquitted. This, he says, was the hardest trial he ever had during all his experience.

He also killed three other men in the Indian country, whose names he declined to mention, for the reason, as he said, that they had grown up children in that country, and he didn't care to have the matter resurrected.

In May, 1880, he was brought to Fort Smith to stand trial for killing prominent citizens of Choctaw, in January of that year, in his (Miller's) own house. This killing he claimed was an accident, that Fulton was drunk, and drew a pistol for the purpose of killing him; that trying to wrench the pistol out of Fulton's hand it was discharged, the bullet entering Fulton's side, and killing him. No one saw the killing except Miller's wife.

HIS WAR RECORD. Miller served throughout the Mexican war in Capt. B. H. Cooper's company, Jeff Davis' regiment, and participated in the battles of Orizaba, Monterrey and the City of Mexico. At the close of the war he returned to the Choctaw nation, and, living on the outskirts of civilization, engaged to some extent in fighting the Indians.

During the war between the states he was a captain in Gen. B. H. Cooper's command (same Cooper mentioned above as being a captain in the Mexican war), during which time he took a hand in the battles of Wilson's Creek, Elk Horn, Prairie Grove, Gibson, Cabin Creek and numerous small skirmishes, being most of the time in command of scouts, and saw much rough service.

In fact, his company was recognized as "independent," going where and when they pleased. He was quite notorious as a raider, and was constantly on the go.

At the close of the war he surrendered with Cooper at Fort Washita, Chickasaw nation, but had made such a record during the war that for a long time after the surrender he remained on the scout, living in Mexico for quite a while.

Among the first men that enlisted in Miller's company after the breaking out of the war was W. C. Quattrill, but he only remained with Miller about three months, when he went to Missouri and built him an everlasting name, as is well known to every body old enough to remember anything about the war.

Miller used to say, if he killed any one during the war they didn't count in his list of thirty.

During all his adventurous life he was never wounded but once, and that was at Weatherford, Tex., in 1872, when he was shot in the knee by a man named Denton.

Miller's mother was one-eighth Choctaw, and his father an Irishman, and his right in the nation comes from his mother.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How Deputations Are Made. Chicago is really not as much of a divorce resort as she gets credit for being. This impression is often gained by accident, and the report is then spread broadcast to the detriment of the city. For instance, the other day there were five men who entered one of the elevators in the Borden block and in the party were two pairs of friends, while the fifth man was a stranger from Indianapolis. The latter was forced to overhear the conversation of the two couples. Said a man in one couple to his friend, during the course of their conversation: "I suppose you are married."

Before an answer could be made a section of the adjoining conversation was overheard, in which the man made the answer appear: "Just temporarily!" and the fifth man looked somewhat astonished. The probabilities are that he went forth and circulated the rumor that marriage in Chicago was merely an affair of the moment, and that the citizens took no chance of its being a failure.—Chicago Herald.

Mental Powers of the Ape. According to a recent letter to The London Times, Mr. Roumanes has succeeded in teaching an ape to count; not merely to detect difference of number, but to associate different groups of sensations with vocal sounds. Fearing that it too complex the experiment would entirely fail, the counting was attempted only up to five. By refusing all but the number of straws asked for, and rewarding the ape for a correct performance, the creature was taught to give at command one, two, three, four, or five straws. His method is to take the straws one by one into his mouth, until one less than the required number have been collected; then, taking up an additional straw, he hands it over, together with those in his mouth—certainly a remarkable performance.—Science.

THE WIFE'S DEFERENCE. If a wife respects her husband she is ready and willing to adapt her daily life according to his wishes. She looks up to him for advice and guidance, as knowing more of the world and its ways than she does herself. It is a woman's nature to reverence the one she loves and submit herself to the wishes of her husband; but it is not done as a slave in bonds, but as a free offering of affection.—Once a Week.

"Emergency Cases." "That is an 'emergency case,'" said a well known callous man to a reporter, "and it should find a place on every train that leaves this or any other city." The emergency case is a little box about the size of a physician's prescription case, and contains bandages of different widths, each in a unit roll, some absorbent cotton, twine, soft rags and sticking plaster. A piece of oiled silk is provided for applying to a burn. The air is tampered to penetrate the silk, in consequence of which the pain to the sufferer is lessened. There should be added to the case a bottle of linseed oil and lime water mixed about half and half. This mixture applied plentifully to a burn, when covered with the oiled silk, will stop the pain entirely, even if the flesh be badly cooked.

A pair of artery forceps are placed in the case, also a pair of scissors, silk for taking up arteries, silver wire for sewing up cuts and curved needles for the same. To these may be added a plain rubber band, some (one foot long and one inch wide. One end of the band is fitted with a small chain and the other end with a hook.

In case of an artery being severed this rubber band, which is simply an improved tourniquet, may be wound tightly around the injured member and again come clear. The General and again come clear. The tourniquet may be used to stop the bleeding promptly stopped.

Such an emergency case may be purchased at a reasonable price from any druggist, and simple lessons should also be given, which should enable one person to patch up another's injuries at least well enough to keep them from bleeding until attendance could be procured.—New York Mail and Express.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

Now IS THE TIME FOR SLIPS AND FALLS!

Moral: Insure in the Travelers.

WENDELL P. MOSHER, Under Duluth Nat. Bank, Agent.

ONE CENT A WORD COLUMN.

FOR RENT.

HOUSES, HOUSES, HOUSES. WE HAVE several houses for rent at low rates.

WE HAVE TWO VERY NICE HOUSES in East Fourth street for rent at a moderate price. By all means look at them.

HOUSE FOR RENT—A ROOM HOUSE corner Fourth avenue east and First street. Possession now in the house. Possession at once. Stryker & Munsey.

MONEY TO LOAN—REPRESENTING eastern capitalists, bankers and a mortgage company. Loans of any size negotiated promptly on low rates of interest.

MONEY TO LOAN—GOOD BUILDING loans a specialty. Insurance carefully written in respectable companies. Chicago & Prairie, 32 Duluth National Bank building.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ARCHITECTS.

E. S. PALMER, ARCHITECT AND SUPERINTENDENT, Room 46 Exchange building, Duluth, Minn.

M. C. MILLER & STEBBINS, ARCHITECTS and superintendents. Office room No. 46 Exchange building.

MUSIC.

UTAL LESSONS BY A NEW AND ORIGINAL method. Easy terms. Harry Harrington, No. 6 Opera block.

MR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC.

DR. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLIST, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements, conducting and teaching.

W. P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE WEST, and piano study; 115 Third avenue.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELIAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER. All kinds of fur clothing, altered and made to order. One less than the regular price. 201 West Superior street opposite Mer chants

YOU WANT
THE NEWS OF THE DAY, CRISP AND CONDENSED, BEFORE THE DAY
IS DEAD.

VOL 9: NO. 251

DULUTH EVENING HERALD.

DULUTH, MINN., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1899—FOUR O'CLOCK

YOU'LL GET
ALL THE NEWS IN THE HERALD, AND
AT YOUR SUPPER TIME.
BOILED DOWN.

PRICE TWO CENTS

MORISON & MACFARLANE.

32 Exchange Building,

Have Lots and Blocks in the Grassy Point additions in immediate vicinity of the West End improvements, for sale at Great Bargains; also acreage suitable for platting on the St. Louis Bay, cheap. Will be pleased to show intending purchasers over the ground and furnish all information regarding said properties. Choice Lots and Blocks in Hunter's and Macfarlane's Grassy Point additions are being rapidly taken up, and prices sure to advance. Come and make your purchases early before they are all gone. Are selling lots on building contract and no cash payment required for one year.

A. L. KINGMAN.

REAL ESTATE.

207 National Bank Bldg.

Residence Lots that lie beautifully only $125.00.
Bargain in Acres.
Bargains in Business Property.
Bargains in Improved Property.
If you want a bargain call. If you have anything to sell cheap don't fail to see me.

GLEN FALLS

Fire Insurance

COMPANY.

We are agents for

the Glens Falls Fire

Ins. Co. Policies

carefully written.

HARRIS BROS.

208 Duluth Nat. Bank.

Life Insurance!

Is a safe investment

insure in the Aetna

Life with

HARRIS BROS.

GENERAL AGENTS

208 Duluth Nat. Bank.

WALBANK & CO.,

125 WEST MICHIGAN STREET, (O'Brien & Knowlton's Bldg.)

WHOLESALE COMMISSION,

AND DEALERS IN

FLOUR, FEED, CORN, OATS, HAY, Etc.

Telephone 287.

C. H. CRAVES & CO.

INSURANCE

Real Estate & Loans

Acres at the West End.
Acres on the Hill.
Acres in the East End.
Lots in Portland.
150 Lots in Endion.
300 Lots in London.

ESTABLISHED 1869.

W. C. SHERWOOD & CO.

REAL ESTATE, LOANS AND INSURANCE.

Have genuine bargains in Lots and Blocks in different parts of the city and acre property adjoining. All we ask for is parties to examine our list and compare them with other prices before buying; call or write. W. C. SHERWOOD & CO.

ECKERT, WILLIAMS & CO.,

WHOLESALE COMMISSION

AND DEALERS IN

Corn, Oats, Flour, Mill Feed, Hay, Etc.

Office and Warehouse on Lake Ave., opp. Sutphin's Cold Storage

C. B. WOODRUFF,

Wholesale and Retail

LUMBER.

Office, yards and planing mill 739 Garfield Ave. (3rd Street) Rice's Point

Complete stock of Dry Lumber, all grades.

Joist, Dimension, Boards, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding and Oak Flooring.

Long Joist 2x10, 2x12 and 2x14, 12 to 26 feet long.

Crowning by machinery a specialty.

Will deliver lumber to any part of the city.

Telephone No. 132. Mail bill of Lumber wanted or call for prices

Kimberley, Stryker & Manley,

FIRST MORTGAGE LOANS,

REAL ESTATE INVESTMENTS,

FIRE INSURANCE.

Parties wishing to borrow money on easy terms without delay and at low rates, or to buy or sell real estate, or to secure insurance in the largest and best foreign and American companies are urged to call and see what we can do for them.

2 & 6 DULUTH NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

Murnane & Spencer,

SPORTING HEADQUARTERS.

33 WEST SUPERIOR STREET.

CHOICE WINES, LIQUORS AND CIGARS.

All sporting news received here. All sporting papers on file.

GUITEAU'S SISTER'S BOOK.

Stalwarts or Who Were Issued to the Trade

Today.

The History of Garfield's Assassination Given, Implicating Many Prominent Politicians.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The novel by Mrs.

Frances Marie Norton, sister of Charles I.

Guiteau, entitled "The Stalwarts, or Who Were to Blame," and to which allusion was made in these dispatches some time ago, was finally issued to the trade today, upon the receipt of cablegrams from London and Paris that the English and French copyrights had been secured. It is a tale of fifty years of American history, dealing with the complications that in that period have resulted in civil war and the assassination of two great presidents, and although the principal actors are disguised under fictitious names, there is little trouble in penetrating the identity. The story begins in the early settlers, and rapidly sketches events up to the election of President Garfield, and his assassination. The theory propounded with startling vividness is that the stalwart element of the Republican party feeling and believing that Garfield would not fall in with the plans for profit and self aggrandizement developed by them during the Grant regime, secretly motioned the machinery that encompassed his destruction. The immediate agents of this conspiracy were men of the basest soul, and they carried the plot to extremes not contemplated by the leaders in the earlier chapters of the work, and gradually growing mental incapacity of Guiteau is carefully traced, and on from the conspiracy the attempt is made to show that Guiteau, a meek, weak infant, was the victim of the devotion of a few of what he thought to be his heroic or divine purpose, was drawn into its meshes until, possessed with the idea that he was an instrument in the hands of Providence, he fired the fatal shot.

The chapter in relation to this event concludes, "A good great tell tale assassin by a moneyed, political, monarchial ring and cowardly to meet the needs of their own scheme or even perpetrate in person this last desperate resort." The novel is the outcome of the devotion of a few who seek to show that long standing insanity was lack of her brother's reason and, and is certain to create a sensation in political circles.

WHITE CAPS AT WORK.

The Organization has Begun Operations in Minnesota, Making Their Debut in St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 11.—The Minnesota

White Caps may be a mythical organization, but they may not be, but certain things have occurred recently that would lead one to believe that such a band really exists right here in St. Paul.

Several weeks ago Prof. d'Henzel, a French professor, who lives at the Clinton hotel, received a printed notice, headed with a skull and cross bones, warning him to change his ways, that he had made himself obnoxious to several persons and was an habitual drinker. He paid little attention to the notice and laughed at it. One week ago the professor received a second warning. This time it read as follows:

This is the second and last warning. Be ware of the Mysic League.

Again the professor received a notice, but noticed that his name was not on it, and he was not at home. About 11 o'clock

Friday night he left his hotel and started on his way. He became aware that he was being followed, and kept a watch until soon his supposed pursuers disappeared. When he reached the next block and was passing an alley he was suddenly attacked by three men, and

THE LADY BICYCLISTS.

The Six Days International Bicycle Race for Ladies began This Morning at Midnight at New York.—A Minneapolis Girl

Entered.

New York, Feb. 11.—Promptly at the stroke of midnight this morning the signal was given and the great international six day bicycle race for ladies in the Madison

Square arena was formally opened.

The arena will cover sixteen hours daily from 3 to 5 p. m. and 8 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The prizes are forty per cent of the gate revenue, and a diamond studded gold medal.

A COLD BAPTISM.

Seven Illinois People Publicly Allow

Themselves to be Baptized in a Deep Stream During a Blizzard.

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 11.—Fannie Mann,

Annie Lee, Douglas Cole, Jacob Grimes and sons, and Charles Grimes and wife, of Blount county, this country, were baptized by immersion yesterday a few miles west of this city. Rev. Mr.

Hodge, of Catlin, and John Lee, of this city, performed the ceremony.

A blizzard and snow storm was prevailing, and it was so cold that the ice formed on the top of the pool and stiffened the garments as soon as they came out of the water. On completion of the ceremony they walked in their stocking feet

a quarter of a mile to the nearest residence to change their garments.

A DEATH DEALING DUILL.

City Marshal Bridgford, of Grant City,

Missouri, killed a young desperado last night in a bar-room encounter.

GRANT CITY, Mo., Feb. 11.—A duel at short range took place Saturday night between Rollo Walton, a young desperado of this city, and a. C. Bridgford, city marshal. Walton had threatened to kill the marshal and when the latter met him in a bar-room here they opened fire simultaneously.

Walton was killed and D. A. Martin, a bystander, shot so seriously in the arm that he was taken to the hospital. The marshal was not injured.

A PROVIDENCE HORROR.

Julia Mather, a Providence, R. I. Woman,

Literally Eaten Alive by Rats while Sick

in a Hotel in that City.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 11.—Julia Mather,

56 years old, died this morning in a miserable hovel at Webster's parlous. The case is particularly horrible, as the husband had given the woman no care at all and she became incapable of doing any more work. The neighbors say that she was left alone, and rats gnawed away at the woman's extremities while she lay getting weaker and weaker. Her body was badly eaten from her thighs, and even her face had been attacked.

AN AMERICAN ABROAD.

He Will be Sent to the Gallies for Life for the Murder of a French Banker.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The trial of Edme

Gurin, the notorious American criminal, who was recently extradited from London for stealing several thousand dollars from the bank of France, will take place in a few days, and the probabilities are that he will go to the gallies for a term of years.

It is understood that he spent $4,000 in endeavoring to avoid extradition.

Bismarck Says War.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—Both the emperor and Prince Bismarck have held long conferences with Lord Charles Beresford, and the emperor has given him and the chiefs of the German navy a banquet. During the interview the conversation upon European states preparation for a war against the combined naval forces of France and Russia. Prince Bismarck, it is reported, advised Lord Charles that an Anglo-French war was nearly as probable as a war between France and Germany, and that if the Bismarckian clique saw a

PERSONAL MENTION.

M. B. Harrison has returned from St.

Paul.

M. Jeffrey, a prominent Montana stock man, is stopping at the Merchants

Mrs. M. E. Hamilton, of the Home office, left Saturday on a visit to friends in St.

Paul.

Mrs. Archie A. McLeod, wife of Archie

McLeod, of the Reading railroad, is visiting

Mrs. J. D. Emery.

General Manager Jason, of the Minnesota Iron company, returned yesterday from the east with Mrs. Jason.

MARINE MATTERS.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Ward's Detroit and Superior line steamer was held in Detroit on Tuesday.

The officers and directors of last year were re-elected. The capital of the line was from $325,000 to $450,000, all paid in.

The company has personal property valued at $415,000, and credits, including cash in treasury, $50,000, no debts.

This season the John M. Nicol, a splendid grueler of 2,200 tons burden, will be launched at Bay City. This ship, belonging to the Ward line, will run direct from Buffalo to Duluth. The Toledo also has been added to the line for the fall season. The line will also have the line of oil, coal, lime and other freights. There are now seven boats in the line and it is in better shape to do business than ever.

The Luman line of tug boats will probably be reinforced by another passenger boat during the season to run upon the

EVENING HERALD.

The DULUTH EVENING HERALD is issued from its office in the Bunnell block every afternoon. First edition at 4 o'clock. Last edition at 5 o'clock. The Evening Herald will be delivered to any part of the city or mailed to any address for fifty cents per month.

The best advertising medium in Northern Minnesota. Special attention given to securing results to those who use its columns.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DULUTH.

If all street car employees were treated with the same consideration and kindness that Duluth's car men are, there would be no strikes in Minneapolis and New York today.

With several new manufacturers to be built on Grassy Point, numberless business structures in the city, besides two grand opera houses, Duluth's commercial and social advancement for 1889 will be truly metropolitan.

The schooner Howenstein was at Casco on the north shore last Monday, making for Grand Marais. This is the 11th of February and navigation still open! What possibilities are not before a country whose such things be.

Skidnits are as numerous as ever in congress. It is stated that they will fight the bill to pay the widow of gallant "Little Phil" a lump sum of $50,000 in lieu of a pension. And these same fellows are the very ones who are always in for any job that will furnish the contents of their own pocket books.

Louis K. Church, Cleveland's delectable Dakota Governor, has tumbled plump "in the soup" but the worst of it is that the territorial legislature is trying to hold his hand under. It is remarkable with what unerring instinct Cleveland's appointees travel in the direction of the "poisonous." It seems to be their natural home.

The White Cap organization has at last begun operations in Minnesota. The governor should take prompt and efficient measures to suppress their lawless actions, for as long as there is law and justice in this state they are not needed. Minnesota authorities are able without any outside assistance, to punish evil doers.

Duluth made a remarkably good showing in the race for commercial precedence among the cities of the northwest last year, and 1889 will bring her much nearer the goal of her ambition. Nothing could be more favorable than the outlook for the coming year, and statistics will show to the Twin cities of the Mississippi before the next 365 days are past that commercial competitors are officers, especially when they serve to make the fact more appreciable to investors that Duluth is the coming city and the place to put their money in.

The ministers have a perfect right to sermonize on the evil effects of the stage, when it comes to be that a former burglar, an associate of all notorious Red Letters, of Mahanah bank robbery fame, and a companion for two years of the James boys, implicated in several of their murders and their raids, is given an ovation by the leading citizens of a city, banqueted and feasted like a prince. Yet the citizens of St. Joseph, Mo., received in this manner recently Kid McCoy, a former crack-man, and now a member of a theatrical company, who opens the safe in a robbery scene in the play called "The Showaway."

The long looked for novel by Mrs. Francis Norton, sister of Charles F. Gutzwiller, purporting to give the truth of the Garfield assassination, was given to the public today. Its title, "The Stewards, or Who were to Blame," is in itself most suggestive, but the contents of the book, implicating as it is said to under a will of disguise easily penetrated by any one at all conversant with the many prominent public men identified with the Steward clique, and the most prominent politicians of the day, is said to be most interesting. She cites her brother as only the tool of scheming politicians, or, quoting from the work, "a good president fell, assassinated by a moneyed political monarchist ring, too cowardly to meet the issues of their own scheme, or even perpetrate in person their last desperate resort." That there is some truth in the novel is not to be controverted, but that it must necessarily be mainly a garbled account of the true inwardness of the lamentable affair, the information, coming as it probably did to her from her hereditary brother, who fired the fatal shot, imagining himself the instrument of Providence, is also a truth. Like the published accounts of some of Bismarck's political intrigues the novel can not but fail to awaken a momentary interest in the public, dealing as it does with an atrocious act unparalleled in American political history, but after creating a nine days' wonder, a little discussion and some newspaper talk, the work will be relegated, as a fit fate for all such works, to the closet shelves. Let the dead lie in peace, and let of night of guilt stain the hands of the living, a retributive justice will sooner or later call them to account.

Questions His Record.
The Minneapolis Tribune publishes a letter from Franklin, the New York skater, questioning Paulsen's championship record. Franklin states that he beat Paulsen's one hundred mile record in Norway, and that Harold Hagen beat him in several races in Norway. He claims too that Hagen held the world's championship medal. Joe. Donahue is also said to have beaten Paulsen's record in winter in Europe. In ending the letter Franklin says: "I claim the title for long distance skating and if Mr. Paulsen wants to do the same, he will either have to skate me or beat my 197 mile record. I trust our trouble will be settled this winter and that Mr. Paulsen will accept my offer."

ALFRED SAMUELSON FRANKLIN.
Paulsen can only get up a purse for a race in Duluth.

If you want to get money on your real estate go to Mendenhall & Hoopes.

FOR RENT.

For rent 8 room house corner Fourth avenue east and First street. Lessee to buy the carpets, window draperies and stove now in this house. Possession given from first to middle of January. G. Hartley, room 202 Duluth Union National building.

FROM ALL OVER MINNESOTA.

Over 277 licenses will be issued to St. Paul saloonkeepers this year. The total amount of insurance issued in the state of Minnesota for 1889 was $227,033,138, nearly $4,000,000 being received in premiums.

Minnesota has sixty-one state banks and their united resources are $23,023,037.

A state Sunday school convention is being held at Clearwater.

An elevator and dwelling burned yesterday at Hastings. The loss was over $10,000.

Bjorkland, the Argeyemurderer, who shot John Ekstrom, was bound over to await grand jury action at the May term of court.

James A. McLaughlin has purchased the Hennepin avenue theatre at Minneapolis, paying therefor $150,000 in cash. He says the theatre is a real estate investment, but will run the play house under the direction of Mr. Hunt, the present manager.

WOULD BE WIT.

Like the Men.

New York Sun: Young wife (on the beach)—I'm Mr. George dear, what are the "old wives" saying?

Young husband (critically watching the bathers)—They are not saying anything but love, but they keep up an awful amount of looking.

A Sure Sign.

Providence Telegram: "How are you getting on with your love making?" inquired Merritt.

"Very nicely indeed," replied Jones.

"Do you think her parents favor your suit?"

"I am sure of it. Her mother never stays in the room with us more than ten minutes."

In Chicago.

Terre Haute Express: Whistle—I understand you got arrested in Chicago.

Whistle—I was. A policeman happened to hear me speak of my new suit as "stunning" and I had just purchased, and he supposed I referred to a sandwich.

At the Musicale.

Terre Haute Express: He—the doctor has decided that wrinkles are mainly produced by laughing.

Yes, sir," said the anxious looking man, "stunning" and I had just purchased, and he supposed I referred to a sandwich.

She Thought Not.

Pittsburg Chronicle: "These biscuits would kill a mile," growled Spaulding, as he surveyed a pile of these edibles of his wife's construction.

"I think not, dear," she replied, sweetly. "Try them and see."

One on the Cashier.

"Can you tell me," inquired an anxious looking man of the bank cashier, "is there any way of disposing of plugged nickels?"

"Certainly," replied the cashier facetiously. "You can drop them into the contribution box at church. Any deacon will take them. He can't not help himself."

"Yes, sir," said the anxious looking man. "I know that. I'm a church deacon. I have half a barrel of them I would like to dispose of."—Chicago Tribune.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own.

I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON, Jeweler.

LOANS, LOANS, LOANS.

We have money to loan in any amount to suit borrowers at a reasonable rate of interest.

Mendenhall & Hoopes.

Notice.

The Dental firm of Metcalf & Senneliff have this day dissolved partnership. Dr. Metcalf remains at the same place and will pay all debts, and collect all accounts of said firm. February 8th 1889.

Excursion Tickets South.

"The North Western Line"—Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad will sell tickets to many of the principal points in the south at greatly reduced rates on following dates:

December 18th, January 15th and 20th; February 12th and 20th; and March 13th and 20th. Tickets will be good to return within 60 days from date of sale, and privilege of stop over at points south of Ohio river. Call at city or depot office of "The North Western Line."

Geo. M. Smith, General Agent.

We Have It.

We have what you are looking for. Several very deep discounts to opportunity to invest in real estate. Lots and blocks in all parts of the city. We can suit you on terms.

Mendenhall & Hoopes.

The Chamber of Torture.

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that the preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervous, anodynes and sedatives, with having some but a specific effect, are yet very desirable at times. Yet can they produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic fluid. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge. Rheumatism, therefore, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its propensities to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should, therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, malacia and nervousness are relieved by it.

FOR RENT.

Office now occupied by M. B. Harrison, 513 West Superior street. Prominent location.

Chas. T. Abbott, real estate office West Duluth.

Laborers desiring to build homes can get money on small payments in any amount. Call at once and see us.

F. W. Smith, Sec., Metropolitan Block.

Money to Loan.

Parties who contemplate building business blocks and desire large loans can be readily accommodated by

S. M. CHANDLER, At Stewart & Britts Bank

Lumber! Lumber!

Our office temporarily will be at No. 12 Second avenue west.

DUNCAN, BREWER & CO.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office

corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

Money to Loan

On furniture, horses, wagons and any chattel security in amounts to suit borrower.

A. C. JAMISON, room 5 Miles block.

W. C. Sargent's coal and wood office

corner Superior street and Third avenue west, Duluth National Bank building.

If you want to borrow money on your "real estate" call on

S. M. CHANDLER, At Stewart & Britts Bank.

West Duluth property.

Chas. T. Abbott.

Mendenhall & Hoopes are situated just right to attend to you. Real property. Rents collected. Taxes paid. Your interests are theirs. See them at Duluth National Bank building.

Money to Loan.

I am prepared to make loans on improved business and residence property in any amount at current rates. No delay.

S. M. CHANDLER, At Stewart & Britts Bank.

GIRLS THAT ARE WANTED.

The girls that are wanted are good girls—Good from the heart to the lips: Pure as Italy's white and pure From its heart to its sweetest lips.

The girls that are wanted are honest girls—Honest as a mother's right hand. That fathers and brothers can trust in, And the little ones understand.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are honest and pure, Pure and sweet to their own folks.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Kind and sweet to their own folks. And those who are

THE DAY IN THE CITY.

John Clark, the light weight, will be seen at the People's this week.

The bank clearance report gives Duluth $2,215,154 for the past week.

Detective Benson is in St. Paul on business connected with the recent robberies here.

The first service in the auditorium of the new Congregational church took place yesterday.

It is predicted that navigation will open a month earlier this year than it did last season.

Meers, Rainey & French have secured the contract for furnishing throughout the new city hall.

Carter and Ives, the billiard champions, who are to play at the St. Louis hotel Wednesday, are giving exhibitions in Minneapolis.

At the Fishermen's meeting Saturday evening W. D. Tomlin said that measures were being taken to prevent the barbarous practice of sealing under the ice.

Russell, the gambler, who was arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the two safe robberies, was taken to the city hall.

The men arrested at Superior were also liberated.

In the future M. B. Harrison's real estate office will be in the Spaulding house.

He is comfortably and conveniently located on the ground floor, first room west of the main entrance.

The lake front was dotted with skaters yesterday. Alex. Paulson, the world's champion ice skater, gave an exhibition at the Lake Avenue rink tonight.

This afternoon Paulson and Johnson, who after being allowed 750 feet the start, will race at the West End rink.

The Zenith City Holds Her Own.

I will meet any competition in my line no matter where from, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul.

ANDREW JACKSON Jeweler.

Money to loan in amount to suit upon improved business property.

At Stewart & Britt's Bank.

Five houses to rent from $8 to $25. per month. Excellent neighborhood.

KIMBLE, STAYNER & MANLEY.

Don't risk it any longer. Insure with Myers & Whipple.

Patronize the Troy Steam Laundry, No. 3 Seventh Avenue West.

When in St. Paul stop at The Clifton, 5th street, near corner of Wabasha.

THAT WONDERFUL COLORED BOY.

Here is a Frightful Infant Who Never Forgets What He Hears.

A little mite of a blind colored boy stood on a table in one of the Astor hotel parlors yesterday afternoon and put to the blush the learning of a lot of gentlemen by a very meager sample of what he knows.

The boy is only 3 years and 4 months old. His name is Oscar Moore and he was born on a farm in Waco, Tex.

His parents are laboring people, who have one other boy and two girls. One evening when Oscar was only a year old he sat in a chair listening to his brother and sisters who were studying the multiplication table. One of them said:

"Four times twelve are fifty-eight."

"Forty-eight," corrected Oscar.

His mother had never heard him speak before, and she began questioning him. Imagine her surprise when she found that Oscar was able to repeat a lot of statements he had heard at odd times, and was liberally supplied with a store of various kinds of information. His fame spread, and recently Oscar was turned over to Mr. H. P. N. Gammel, of Austin, who will be his guardian until he is 30 years old.

It soon became clear that the only remarkable thing about Oscar is his memory, which is capable of retaining everything the boy hears. He is a well built, manly little fellow, with a childish voice, and is as full of mischief and fun as boys of his age naturally are. He enjoyed himself hugely yesterday, and was anxious to know if the table he stood upon was a stage, and if he was really having a reception. Then everybody took turns in asking Oscar questions. Here is a sample of them, and of the replies, which were given instantly:

"How fast does a rifle ball move?"

"One thousand miles an hour. Is this really a ball?"

"Where is the largest bell in the world?"

"In Moscow, Russia."

"When was slavery abolished?"

"In 1863."

"I said abolished."

"Oh, in 1863. I thought you said when was it begun."

"What is the population of Holland and the Netherlands?"

"Four million twelve thousand six hundred and ninety-three."

"What is the capital of Venezuela?"

"Caracas. I like crackers, though."

"How many languages in the world?"

"Two thousand seven hundred and fifty."

"How many bones in a man's body?"

"Three hundred and eight. I know how many there are in a woman—302."

"How many square feet in an acre?"

"In a giggle! Two."

"In an acre?"

"Forty-three thousand five hundred and sixty. Rusta."

"What is the population of the United States?"

"Oh, I've got the hickups."

"What city has a population of 503,183?"

"Chicago."

"Who was the second president of the United States?"

"John Adams."

"The fifth?"

"James Monroe."

"The thirtieth?"

"Millard Fillmore."

"The twenty-third?"

"Oscar Moore. Ho! ha! hee!"

Little Oscar grew sarcastic, and asked:

"You are sure that's the right answer, are you?"

On being assured that it was, he would reply: "Well, I guess so."

Oscar counted from one to ten in Chinese, Spanish, Latin, French and Welsh.

"Count from one to ten in Danish."

"I can't," he answered. "I'll count from one to twenty; there is no ten in Danish."

Then Oscar sang several songs in English and one in German. He is strong on dates, the names and population of all the cities in the world, the weight of any given quantity of corn, flour, wheat, copper, silver, gold and iron, and hundreds of other things that not one man in 10,000 knows. He enjoys answering questions. It seems to require no mental effort at all. Mr. Gammel does not yet know what he will do with Oscar, but it is likely that he will be launched into public life.—New York Sun.

Diamonds, watches, silverware, etc., at prices to suit the times, at Jackson's.

Try The

MAGNOLIA CIGAR.

—AT—

BOYCE & TOTMAN'S.

127 Tenth Avenue East.

A NATURAL BONE SETTER.

REMARKABLE OPERATIONS BY AN UNTUTORED WOMAN.

She Was Entirely Without Professional Training—Her Ability to Successfully Treat Apparently Incurable Cases Made the Surgeons Jealous.

An interesting story of concern to Brooklyn people was recalled to me the other day:

Arizona is a little picturesque village near Vittoria, in northeastern Italy, not far from the Austrian Tyrol. It is the home of a noted woman, whose fame has spread throughout all Europe by her skill to relieve human suffering. Regina del Cin was born in the village of Vendicariano, near Conegliano, Venetia, April 4, 1810. Her parents were Lorenzo Marchesini and Marianna Sandoz, both of whom belonged to the peasantry of Venetia. Following the vocation of her mother, Regina, from early childhood, displayed a taste for setting dislocated bones.

At first practicing her art on children, and animals, Regina's first operation, strange to say, was upon her mother. One day, as she was going to a neighboring village, the wagon upset and her leg was broken. Regina, who was now 9 years old, following her mother's directions, set the limb. Her mother was carried home and confined to the house for forty days, during which her daughter became her nurse.

THE DOCTORS ENJOINED.

A year later Regina went to live with her brother at Vittoria, where she began to set operations in the hospital and acquired her celebrated delicacy of touch. At the age of 18 she married Lorenzo del Cin, a poor peasant, and was shortly left a widow with one son, who became a priest. Among her early operations was one upon a poor fellow in the village of Alpago, who was confined to his bed by fractured legs. The doctors had ordered amputation, when Regina, appearing at the time, declared she could save both legs, and in short time the man was able to walk.

Doctors, enraged at being thus outwitted, had her arrested and taken before the tribunal for practicing without a license. Her advocate was the patient whom she had just cured. Regina was pardoned, but ordered to practice no more. Yet patients came to her day by day, declaring they would see no one else. The theory of her skill was the "reduction of the femur." A poultice of marsh-mallow and bran was applied and continued for a longer or shorter time, accordingly as the dislocation was new or old. When the bone had attained a certain softness the manipulation began and the dismembered parts placed aright, the force being used at the proper time, and unconsciously to the patient, all being done without chloroform and without causing pain. It must be remarked, however, that she possessed an almost supernatural strength in her fingers, equal to that of two men.

Another wonderful cure was in the case of Dr. Bellini, an invalid from hip dislocation of twenty years' standing. Dr. Bellini was one of the physicians whose prejudices, twenty-five years before, she had sought to overcome. From 1843 to 1853 she continued to practice her profession, in which her only desire was to excel. From patients of ample means she always expected liberal compensation, but the poorest she charged nothing.

Again summoned before the tribunal at Vittoria for practicing without a license, she was condemned to two months' imprisonment. The case was carried to the higher court at Venice, where, defending herself with great skill, she said: "Gentlemen, you know very well how to name the bones. I do not; but I can set them, and you cannot."

She was acquitted and great rejoicing. A lady of Venice whose daughter was suffering from luxation of the femur sent for Regina, and the young lady in a short time was able to lay aside her crutches.

THE DOCTORS ENJOINED.

The physicians of Venice, after an interview, now each presented her with a certificate. Honors still awaited her. Mr. Canale, a rich banker of Trieste, whose daughter had suffered from infancy with the same disease, and who had consulted all the best physicians of the great capital without finding any benefit, finally sent for Regina, who operated on the daughter, and in a short time she was cured. Operations began to multiply. Wonderful cures were effected. Regina was tendered an ovation. Surrounded on the streets and everywhere hailed with enthusiasm, she would smile and bid them "thank God, for it is to him I hold this gift."

A municipality invited her to operate in the city hospital before a number of physicians, and she secured their warm approval, and they rewarded her with a certificate.

The mayor now gave her a grand dinner, at which were present the elite of the city and many physicians. They applauded her everywhere, as if she were Garibaldi or some other liberator of the country.

The day of her departure a deputation of patients, headed by Mr. Valerio, who had been cured of luxation of twenty years' standing, presented her with a magnificent album, containing over 4,000 signatures, including those of eighty physicians, beautifully dedicated in lines of gold. The municipality of Trieste presented her with 100 Napoleons in gold, one-half of which she distributed to the poor. The professor offered her 500 florins a year and a villa to remain.

It was a fete day at Vittoria when the Italian government sent Regina a diploma allowing her to practice. Music sounded on the streets, national airs were sung. A young man whom she had cured of luxation of the femur wrote two poems, which were rendered at the theatre during the afternoon and evening.

Mr. Isaac R. Robinson, of Montague terrace, Brooklyn, who was rendered lame from a sickness during infancy, while traveling abroad, sought her at her home and was benefited to the extent of being able to walk without the use of a high shoe. The cases of all cures, yet in some instances relaxation took place after treatment, as to which she said, "I only begin to cure; you must do the rest," meaning the continuance of bandages, etc. Incurable patients sought her door. Discerning their condition, a single touch telling her the condition of the bone, she dismissed them with a sweet smile, often handing them a coin.

Though now 70 years old, day by day she is visited by Italians, Austrians, French, Prussians, Russians, Poles, Greeks and Turks. She shows no distinction to patients.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Random in Mortar.

A Maine genius has discovered that spruce sawdust is an excellent substitute for sand in making common mortar for plastering houses. He has used it in making a house in Greenville, and other masons in the state are experimenting with it.

New York city has 427 million of street sewers.

The finest Line of

Optical goods in the city at

BOYCE & TOTMAN

127 Tenth Avenue East.

Composition of Quicksand.

Quicksand is found in nearly all parts of the country, but in very great quantity along the Platte river in Nebraska. It is composed principally of mica, or small particles of rock disintegrated from large bodies of rock and subjected to a continuous washing process. The water removes all the raggedness or angular shape from the particles. The fragments become smooth and aliny and slip upon each other with the greatest facility, so that any heavy weight resting upon this sand causes the particles to be displaced. They separate from the center, allowing the weight to sink until a solid basis is reached. When particles of sand are ragged and angular any weight pressing on them will crowd them together until they are compacted into a solid mass. A sand composed of mica or soapstone mixed with water seems incapable of such consolidation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Afraid It Was Loaded.

Just after the war, and when the poet Walt Whitman lived at Amesbury, Mass., he received a heavy and queer looking box from Lookout Mountain. His niece, a timid young woman, feared that the strange arrival might be an infernal machine from the rebels, and persuaded her uncle to have it buried in the garden, where it remained till the mail brought a letter saying that the box contained an instantaneously modeled from northern and southern bullets, picked up on the famous Tennessee battle field.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Bayard's Finances.

Despite the reports to the contrary, Secretary Bayard is a comparatively rich man. He is worth more than $300,000. He inherited from his father, the late Senator Bayard, $30,000. From his wife he acquired three times that amount. By judicious investments in Baltimore real estate he has added, at the very least, $100,000 to all this, and is now in receipt of a handsome and assured income. He has fully determined to indulge in rest and recreation the remainder of his life.—Chicago Herald.

Of late years eastern shoe manufacturers have been unworring their lines of production with a view to producing a few very fine specialties rather than a great variety of inferior makes. The custom seems to be spreading, and it is said to have proved successful financially.

There is a Mormon settlement in Minnesota which is said to be steadily growing. They have six missionaries at work among the Scandinavian settlers of the state.

ROYAL

BAKING

POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can be sold in competition of the multitude of low cost, short weight adulterated powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 110 Wall Street, New York.

ONE CENT A WORD COLUMN.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FOR THE SAKE OF PRACTICE IN actual business, the pupils in the short hand and typewriting department of W. F. Parsons' Business college solicit work in their line free of charge. Good work guaranteed.

HELP WANTED.

Male.

WANTED—GOOD STRAIGHT YEN. FOR

Gregor, room 10 Metropolitan block.

WANTED—MAN TO SAW AND SPLIT cord of wood. Apply at Herald office.

FOR RENT.

Houses.

HOUSE FOR RENT—ROOM HOUSE CORner Fourth Avenue East and First Street.

Leasee to buy the carpets, window draperies and stove in the house. Possession given from first to middle of January. G. G. building, room 22 Duluth Union National

FINANCIAL.

MONEY TO LOAN—$50, 100, 200, 300, 400 OR any other amount. Easy terms. No delay.

W. F. Parsons, Street & Main.

MONEY TO LOAN—REPRESENTING

eastern capitalists, bankers and a mortgage company. Loans of any size negotiated promptly on low rates of interest.

N. J. Upham, Room 7 Metropolitan block.

MONEY TO LOAN—GOOD BUILDING

loans a specialty. Insurance carefully written in responsible companies. Clague & Prindle, 32 Duluth National Bank building.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ARCHITECTS.

E. S. PALMER, L. P. WALKER, ARCHITECTS.

Superintendents, Room 4 Exchange building, Duluth, Minn.

MCMILLEN & STEBBINS, ARCHITECTS and superintendents. Office room No. Exchange building.

MUSIC.

UTTER LESSONS BY A NEW AND ORIGINAL method. Easy terms. Harry Harrington, No. 8 Opera block.

M. H. P. ROBINSON, BASS SOLOIST.

He has been or is engaged at his studio, No. 8 Miles block, to arrange for concert engagements. Lessons of any kind.

P. SCHILLING—VOICE CULTURE and piano study; 118 Third Avenue West.

HATTER AND FURRIER.

S. GELHAAR, N. Y. PRACTICAL FURRIER.

All kinds of furs cleaned, altered and repaired. Seal aneques dyed and retined a specialty. 201 West Superior street opposite Mercha hotel Duluth Minn.

OPTICIAN AND CONSULTING OC-

ULIST.

PRESERVE YOUR EYE SIGHT—IF YOUR

eyes blur, if you are troubled with old sight, near sight, far sight or astigmatism, try our spectacle and eye glasses. Houseils guaranteed. Optician's prescriptions correctly filled. Noll, optician, Room 8, Hunter block.

TEACHER.

MRS. MINNIE L. RAINEY, TEACHER OF Voice Culture. 21 East Third street.

BOYCE & TOTMAN.

Are Headquarters for

TOILET ARTICLES.

127 Tenth Avenue East.

CONTRACT WORK.

Office of Board of Public Works, Duluth, Minn., Feb. 8th, 1889.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Public Works in and for the corporation of the city of Duluth, Minnesota, at their office in Duluth, Minn., on the 15th day of February, A. D. 1889, for the construction of a plank sidewalk on the north side of Michigan street, said city, between Garfield Avenue and Seventeenth Avenue West, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of said Board.

A certified check or a bond with at least two (2) sureties in a sum of fifty (50) dollars must accompany each bid.

The said board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MINOR HUNTER, President, F. J. W. Official: Geo. T. Humes, Clerk of the Board of Public Works, Feb. 8th.

GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY!

Murray's Specific.

Trade Mark: A guaranteed cure for all nervous diseases, such as Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Hysteria, Headache, Pain in the Back, Nervous Prostration, Leucorrhoea, Universal Lassitude, Seminal Emission, Impotency and general loss of power of the system. Organized by either sex, caused by indigestion, or over-exertion, and which ultimately lead to Premature Old Age, Insanity and Consumption. $1.00 a box or six boxes for $5.00. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Full particulars in pamphlet sent free to every applicant. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. For every $5.00 order received we send six boxes with a written guarantee to refund the money if our Specific does not effect a cure. Address all communications to the sole manufacturers THE MURRAY MEDICINE CO., Kansas City, Mo.

Sold in Duluth by Max Wirth.

AMUSEMENTS

People's Theater.

HARRY HANNETT, Prop. and Mgr.

GEO. E. KENT, Assistant Manager.

H. A. BELME, Treasurer.

W. H. KENNEY, Stage Manager.

PROF. H. BECK, Leader of Orchestra.

Program for the week commencing Monday, February 4, 1889.

Our Challenge Star Company.

Opening with our own program! Party in songs, Balades and Komikal Sayings.

Read the list of Artists:

Miss Ella Rantz,

Keating & Matthews,

Miss Libbie Clark,

Lester Howard,

Miss Emma Howard,

Jerry Keel,

Clark and Rankin.

Performance to conclude with Lester Howard's Funny Farce Comedy,

"NEMESIS."

Other Changes in the Stock Company.

Look for a Great Show next week! Prices 50c, 30c and 10c.

HIGH

GRADE

GOODS

—AT—

LOW

GRADE

PRICES

—AT—

JACKSON'S

THE

JEWELER.